The Right Honourable VISCOUNT PALMERSTON, M.P., G.C.B., Her Majesty's Principal Secretary of State for the Home Department.

General Register Office,
August 21st, 1854.

MY LORD,

I HAVE the honour to submit to you the Abstracts of the Marriages, of the Births, and of the Deaths registered during the year 1850, in England and Wales; together with a general summary of the annual Abstracts for each of the ten years intervening between the last and the previous census.

NOTE.—By disregarding the decimal points the Table will show the proportion to every 100,000 persons living. A correction for increase of population has been made in calculating the above results.

In the year 1850 the number of marriages was 152744, of births 593422, and of deaths 368995; so the births exceeded the deaths by 224427.

As a standard for a comparison of the results with those of any particular year, it may be stated, that on an average of the 13 years 1838—1850 the annual rate of mortality in England is 2·238 per cent., the rate of birth 3·231, the rate of marriage 1·599 per cent., (the marriages being 0·799 per cent.); or, in other terms, and with somewhat less accuracy, 1 in 45 of the people dies annually; one child is born alive to every 31 living; and 1 in 63 of the population contracts marriage, or there is one marriage annually to every 125.

The marriages and the births in 1850 exceeded the numbers registered in any previous year; and after allowing for increase of population, the rate of marriage (1·720 per cent., or 1 in 58 nearly), as well as the rate of birth (3·340, or 1 in 30 nearly), greatly exceeded the average. The mortality, on the contrary, was below the average; and the rate of 2·077 per cent., or 1 in 48 on the population, is the lowest rate that has been observed.

The mortality in the previous year 1849 was at the rate of 2·512 per cent. It was the year of the cholera epidemic.

It has been stated that an epidemic is invariably followed by a period of low mortality, which is again accounted for on the supposition that the weakly die of the epidemic, who under ordinary circumstances would die a year or two years subsequently of some other disease. This, however, requires further investigation. In the former epidemic of cholera (1832) the decline of the mortality in the subsequent year was inconsiderable; but in that year the epidemic had not completely subsided.

Marriages.

Of the 152744 marriages in the year 1850, 130959, or 86 per cent., were celebrated according to the rites of the established church; 8 were stated to be by special licence; 17413 by licence; 98669 by banns; and 3136 by superintendent registrar's certificate, which may be looked upon as a substitute for the proclamation of banns or licence. In 11733 instances the preliminary authority for the marriage was not stated by the officiating clergyman.

Of the 21785 marriages that were not performed according to the rites of the established church, 15249 were celebrated in registered places of worship, namely, 5623 in Roman Catholic chapels, and 9626 in the chapels of other christian denominations; and 6207 in superintendent registrar's offices; 69 marriages took place between Quakers; 260 between Jews.

It will be observed that the marriages in registered places increased from 2976 to 15249, or fivefold in 13 years; within the last 7 years the marriages in Roman Catholic chapels increased from 2280 to 5623, and in a more rapid ratio than the marriages in other registered places of worship.

From returns which were procured at the last census, it was estimated that on Sunday, March 31st, 1851, the total number of persons who attended places of public worship was 7,261,032.* Upon comparing the marriages with the number of attendants at different places of religious worship, this general result is obtained:—That among the Roman Catholics the persons who married were in the proportion of one to every 28 attendants, while among the members of the Church of England and of other religious denominations, except Jews and Quakers, there was one marriage to every 25 attendants. The facts stand thus:

	Persons married in 1850.	Attendants at Places of Public Worship on March 30th 1851.	Proportional Numbers.
Church of England and other Christian bodies (exclusive of Quakers and Roman Catholics) - -	281,170	6,913,690	1 to 25
Roman Catholics - -	11,246	305,393	1 to 28

If we divide the Protestants into two classes a very different result is obtained:

	Persons married in 1850.	Attendants at Places of Public Worship on March 30th 1851.	Proportional Numbers.
Church of England - -	261,918	3,773,474	1 to 14
Other Christian bodies (exclusive of Quakers and Roman Catholics) -	19,252	3,140,216	1 to 163

The number of persons married in 1850 at the churches was to the number of attendants on the Census Sunday as 1 to 14; while the number of persons married at the chapels was to the number of attendants as 1 to 164. The whole of this discrepancy can scarcely be accounted for by the attendance of members of the Church of England at the chapels, or by the marriage of members of dissenting congregations according to the rites of the Church of England: but it admits of no doubt that from the influence of long custom, of opinion, or of a preference for the judicious, admirable, and well-established marriage service of the Church of England, vast numbers of the people who habitually attend other places of worship resort to the churches to marry.

The dissenters also complain, with justice, that in marrying according to their own rites they are subject to restrictions and unnecessary annoyances;* the notices of their marriages are read before boards of poor law guardians, and their marriages in the register offices have often to be performed in the workhouses, which, it must be admitted, as they offer no pleasant associations, open no very inviting avenue to the temple of Hymen.

The Quakers attended to the number of 18,172 at their 371 places of worship, containing 91,559 sittings, on the Census Sunday (March 30th, 1851); but in the year 1850 only 138 of the Friends married according to their own forms, so that there is still an unusual reluctance to marry among the male or female members of this remarkable sect, which, if it is neither sustained by hereditary accessions nor proselytes, will eventually decline in England.

The Jews present quite a different aspect; they marry in considerable numbers (520 were married in 1850); but the number who attended their synagogues on Saturday was only 4150; so that there was one Jew married to every 8 who attended. Marriage appears to be common, but polygamy, though it is allowed by the law of Moses, is, I am informed, not practised by the Jews in any country of Europe except Turkey.

Marriages of minors. In the year, 7453 young men and 23109 women married under 21 years of age; so that 4·88 per cent. of the men, 15·13 per cent. of the women, were minors; or, taking 100 (50 men and 50 women),

* The proportion of Widowers and Widows in the Year 1841 is for the September and December quarters only.

* The expense attending a marriage by licence in a dissenting place of worship is as follows: fee for entry in marriage notice book 1*s.*; certificate of the entry 1*s.*; affidavit stamp 2*s.* 6*d.*; licence and stamp 3*l.* 10*s.*; Registrar's fee 10*s.*; certificate of the marriage (optional, but usually required and paid for) 2*s.* 6*d.*; total 4*l.* 7*s.* If the parties live in two different districts, notice must be given in each, causing an additional expense of 2*s.*; the total expense is thus raised to 4*l.* 9*s.* In the established church the cost of a licence (including the stamp), is generally about 2*l.* 12*s.* 6*d.*; the fees at the church are about 1*l.* 1*s.*; and the certificate of marriage 2*s.* 6*d.*; total 3*l.* 16*s.* The fees are not the same at all churches, but the sum of 1*l.* 1*s.* (thus sub-divided, rector 13*s.*, clerk 5*s.* 6*d.*, sexton 2*s.* 6*d.*) may be stated as the amount usually demanded in the parishes of the metropolis.

it is found that 10·01 per cent. (nearly one in 10) are minors, which is more than the average proportion of previous years. The practice of early marriage differs in the several English counties, and is apparently most prevalent in the Eastern, and in the Midland Divisions; of every 100 men that married the minors exceeded the proportion of 7 in nine counties:

they were 7·63 in Hertford, 7·75 in Bucks, 8·00 in Northampton, 8·23 in Huntingdon, 13·69 in Bedford, 7·07 in Cambridge, 8·09 in Wilts, 9·10 in Leicester, 7·60 in the West Riding of Yorkshire. In London, in the South Eastern counties, in the Northern counties, and in Wales, the proportion of minors was generally much below the average (4·88 per cent. for males); and in Herefordshire the proportion of minors among the men married was only 1·45 per cent.; among the women 9·02 per cent. In Bedfordshire the proportion of minors was 13·69 among men, 22·02 among women. The other counties in which more than 20 per cent. of the women are under the age of 21 years on the day of marriage, are Hertford (20·37), Bucks (20·36), Huntingdon (24·90), Bedford 22·02, Cambridge (21·43), Essex (20·11), Stafford 21·08, the West Riding of York 23·06. In London (9·32), Devon 9·54, Hereford 9·02, Salop 9·35, North Wales 7·60, the young women under the age of 21 did not exceed 10 per cent. of the number married.

At a future time I shall endeavour to apply another method to this inquiry into the age of marriage, which differs in different counties as well as in different classes of society, and in its causes and its consequences is of an importance that has not been determined, and is probably not adequately appreciated.

Re-marriages. 22138 men and 14155 women were re-married in 1850; so of the men married 14·49 per cent. were widowers, and 9·27 per cent. of the women were widows. In the East Riding of York 17·97 in 100 men, in Herefordshire 10·47 in 100 men that married in the year were widowers. These two counties present the extreme proportions. The proportion of widows among the remarried ranged from 11·73 in 100 in Monmouthshire to 6·22 in Cornwall.

Border marriages. Upon examining the proportion of marriages to the population in the several counties (Table V.), it will be observed that, although the marriages in the country generally are in the proportion of 860 marriages to every 100,000 of the population, the proportions in London, Lancashire, and the East Riding of York, including the city, exceed 1000, while in the parts of Middlesex and Surrey around London, in Essex, in Hertfordshire, in Herefordshire, and in Cumberland the proportion of annual marriages is less than, or scarcely exceeds, 600. Some of the usual residents of the surrounding counties probably resort to London to marry; and the proportional number of persons of a marriagable age in London exceeds the average of the country. The marriages that are registered in the northern counties are reduced by the "Border marriages" as they are called.

Marriages are performed in various ways in Scotland; and of some the ceremony, as in the marriages at Gretna Green, is of the simplest and most primitive character. It is shown in the last census report that the loose state of the marriage law, far from facilitating, discourages marriage in general, and that at present the proportion of persons living avowedly in families united by wedlock is proportionally much less in Scotland than it is in England. The border, however, does facilitate the clandestine marriages of English minors and daughters of the wealthier classes; and, since the railways have been laid down, is resorted to, I am informed, by great numbers of the humbler classes, not without considerable risk of the deterioration of manners which always follows where marriage, the foundation of families and of society, is treated as a light matter, and the line of demarcation between those living in wedlock and those living in concubinage is indistinct.*

* I am informed that 800 marriages have been performed in a year at one turnpike gate on the border; and the statements in the subjoined extract from a letter, addressed to me by an estimable clergyman living 30 miles from Gretna Green, are supported by ample evidence:

"When I became vicar in 1829, Gretna Green marriages were not uncommon, but by degrees, and as I suspect by the facility of railways, first by the opening of the Newcastle and Carlisle, and still more afterwards of the Caledonian, they have become almost universal, in so far as the humbler classes are concerned. Thus in 1830, with a population of 4119, there were 29 publications of banns; but recently, with a population of 5368, there were 7 marriages in the year, of which but one was by banns, (see my return); and I believe there was not a marriage at any place in the parish, except the church, during the year. A few years ago a Carlisle newspaper stated that upwards of sixty couples were married at Gretna within 24 hours after a hiring of servants there; and the Newcastle Courant of December 20th, 1850, says, 'One day last week 7 couples from Northumber-'land arrived at the Tweedmouth Station, Berwick, with a view of being married over 'the border.' Indeed the inhabitants of Berwick have petitioned Parliament more than once to pass a law for the prevention of such marriages; and I need scarcely to remind you, that a man is now undergoing a sentence of imprisonment in Appleby Jail for the abduction of a child of only 12 years old from a boarding school, being an heiress, to whose fortune he will be entitled, because Gretna Green marriages are legal. But apart from such a special case, this practice is productive of very great evils. Boys and girls in their teens, from 15 (I have known one from 14) and upwards, run off from a dance, or some holiday meeting, or otherwise get married, almost as a joke, but to the consternation and distress of their parents, upon whom, having nowhere else to go, they quarter themselves: they are wedded to poverty and unhappiness, and have children, while yet children themselves, and totally devoid of every qualification for the proper guidance of a family. There is also sometimes a serious difficulty in proving the marriage. Not very long ago the township of Haltwhistle was at the expense of more than 40*l.* in establishing the identity of parties to a border marriage, contracted in the presence of a woman, where the wife had been deserted, and become chargeable; and sometimes (as I could point out instances) couples, without reaching their destination, have returned to live together as man and wife, till some accidental circumstance betrayed them. But I am sure it is unnecessary further to enumerate the evils and immoralities of the system (for they have been universally admitted), or to point out the inefficiency of the English Marriage Act for this part of the kingdom, in insisting on preliminaries which give time for consideration, and on perfect publicity of what is intended, so that parents may interfere, because the parties can just step over the border and evade them all, by being lawfully married at any time and in any way."

The following passages are extracts from his replies to inquiries that were addressed to him:

"Adults as well as minors resort to border marriages; in fact it appears very rare for the humbler orders to think of being married in any other way, as my return of 7 marriages in 1854, of which but one was after banns, is a sufficient proof. Though the system is not universal amongst those classes which are generally married by licence, still it is often adopted, as may be inferred from my return (being 6 marriages by licence in the year for a population of 5368), and it appears steadily advancing.

"I believe 'the little trouble in the ceremony' forms the great charm of border marriages,—certainly not 'economy' (as my third answer will show);—next, the little jaunt there, and a certain amount of levity, which, though out of place, is frequently the concomitant of a wedding; but not 'motives of secrecy;' for, apart from the exceptional cases of boys and girls in their teens, or where there are other strong objections, the setting off is generally known,—I mean of such as ought to have been the ordinary couples at church,—and there is often an assemblage at the station to greet them at the time of their expected return. It is also very usual to start from a hiring or fair, and when the man is more or less under the influence of liquor or other excitement; and if this should subside on the journey, still the fear of ridicule prevails, for I never heard of any who confessed to have returned unmarried. In the cases I alluded to in my former letter (being two) which were detected (particularly one of them) in a very extraordinary way, after three children had been born, I managed with some difficulty to marry them at church; but it is not at all improbable that there may be couples so living together now, and equally unsuspected as these.

"The 'cost of marriage' is, I believe, in this part of England, quite low; but I cannot speak positively of any parish except my own, where the fees are little more than the half of those which I have known elsewhere. Thus at Haltwhistle the fees for a marriage by licence are 5*s.* to the clergyman, and 4*s.* 6*d.* to the clerk; after banns, the publication is 1*s.*, at the ceremony 2*s.* to the clergyman and 2*s.* 6*d.* to the clerk. After the service the wedding party sometimes resorts to a public house, but it is not unusual for them to go straight home; so there is no established custom of additional expense which people in names. The mode of signature is optional; but it is probable that the mark is only resorted to where the parties are unable to write their names, or where they write imperfectly. This simple test affords, therefore, a good indication of the diffusion and progress of elementary education among the people. Now in 1850 of 100 men that married 68·9 wrote their names, of 100 women 53·8 wrote their names; and 31·1 of the men, 46·2 of the women signed the marriage register with marks. This is a striking example of the neglect of elementary education in England at the time these persons were educated. 46 in every 100 of the future mothers of the English population cannot write, or write so imperfectly that they made their marks instead of writing their names in the marriage register. How long is the population to remain in this state of ignorance?

Within the 8 years 1839—1846 the number of males who signed with marks ranged from 32 to 34, and in the 4 subsequent years the number fell to 31; so in the first period from 48 to 50 in 100 women signed with marks, while in the latter the proportions fell to 45 and 46. The numbers who can write appear to increase; but it is not improbable that a part of the improvement is only apparent, and that since public attention has been called to the subject, a few of the men and women who write very badly, and under former circumstances would have made their mark, are now induced to write their names.

London and certain counties are distinguished above the rest by the high proportion of the men and women who write: thus, in London 88 in 100 men wrote their names, in Cumberland 84, Westmorland 81, Northumberland 81, in the North Riding of Yorkshire 81, in the East Riding of Yorkshire 80.

Second in the proportional order of writing are the men of Rutland, 76·2; Devon 74·0, Gloucester 73·9, Durham 73·8, Lincoln 72·6, Derby 72·2, Kent 72·1, Hants 71·8, Sussex 70·2.

In strong contrast with these counties, many counties may be enumerated in which less than 60 in 100 men that married wrote their names. In the county of Monmouth only 49·9 in 100 wrote their names, in Hertford 51·7, in Bedford 52·8, in Stafford 53·1, in Suffolk 54·3, in North Wales 55·7, South Wales 56·4, Essex 57·2, Shropshire 57·7, Wilts 58·7, Bucks 58·8, Norfolk 58·8, Hereford 59·3, Cambridge 59·4, Berks 59·7.

Contrast the two mining counties, Durham, in the north, 73·8, Stafford, in the West Midland Division, 53·1; and again Lincolnshire 72·6, with Essex 57·2; Cumberland 83·9 with Bedford 52·8, in 100 men at the age of marriage who write.

Among counties those supply a standard in which 80 in every 100 men who marry write; and we may inquire why do so many counties fall general, and especially the poorest, find a difficulty in breaking through. I have been told, but cannot speak from my own knowledge, that there is much bargaining about fees at Gretna, and that with good management and a stout plea of poverty a couple may be married for a very little; while generous tempers, especially when made more generous by the occasion, and perhaps by the additional stimulus of liquor, are obliged to pay very exorbitantly. I have myself frequently heard men complain afterwards of the expense of a Gretna marriage, and know that in one way or other they have often scarcely enough to carry them home, and it is under my knowledge that they sometimes have to borrow or pledge at Carlisle; and the railway fares there and back are at least double the whole expense of being married after banns at the parish church, without taking anything else into the account.

"Stating, lastly, that in this extensive parish there are four railway stations, offering facilities for the trip, which bring Gretna Green still more in competition with the parish church, I will only add, that this wholesale desertion is not at all occasioned by my own personal unpopularity, for I am happy to say that I stand well with my parishioners of every grade, while the humbler ones never hesitate to come to me for assistance and advice in their troubles or little matters of business; and that it will give me much pleasure to supply any further information in my power that shall be of use in forwarding this important object."

short of this degree of elementary instruction which in other counties has been actually attained? Are the people of the retarded counties less capable of learning than the other people? Is the organization of schools different? Is the supply of schools adequate or inadequate to the wants of the people? Are the clergy, the learned classes, or the landed proprietors more or less active in promoting instruction in the one class than in the other class of counties, arranged in the order of education? Do the occupations of the children interfere more in certain counties than in others with their instruction? All these inquiries should be made; and it will probably be found that by increased exertions, and by some simple, well-considered arrangements 80 per cent. if not the whole of the men of the next generation may be enabled to write.

Of the women, more than 70 in 100 wrote their names in London, in Surrey, and in Rutland; more than 60 in 100 in Cumberland, Westmorland, Northumberland, the East and the North Ridings of York, Gloucester, Devon, Dorset, Middlesex, Kent, Sussex, and Hants.

The instruction of women in writing is lowest in Wales; Lancashire stands next (only 36 in 100 women wrote their names); in Monmouth the proportion who wrote is only 37·6, in the West Riding it is only 38·6. This is probably one of the incidental, but most deplorable, results of the factory labour of females in Lancashire and the West Riding of Yorkshire, where the women would, under more favourable circumstances, be as competent to write as the women of other counties.

Marriages in different Seasons. Marriages take place in every month of the year; but while the number of marriages through the spring and the summer quarters amounted to nearly 13,000 a month, the marriages were at the rate of 10,000 a month in the first three months, and 15,000 a month in the last three months of the year. And thus it has happened for the thirteen years (1838–50) that in England there have been three marriages in October, November, and December to every two in January, February, and March.

The inclination to marry in the last three months of the year is carried to the greatest excess in the Eastern Division, Essex, Suffolk, and Norfolk, where the marriages in the quarters of the year were 1476, 1596, 1585, and 3059.

In London, upon the other hand, there is a slight excess of marriages in the third quarter ending in September.*

In Lincoln the great excess of marriages falls upon the genial months of April, May, and June.†

the births were less than 3·00 per cent. on the population; the proportion was lowest (2·77) in Shropshire. In the following counties the proportion of births exceeded 3·6 per cent.; namely, Huntingdon, Bedford, Cambridge, Stafford (3·777 highest), Lancashire, West Riding of Yorkshire, and Durham. The proportion of births to the population is lowest in the agricultural,—highest in the manufacturing and mining counties.

In all England the births are registered in the greatest numbers in the three months of April, May, and June; but it will be noticed in Table IX. that the distribution of births over the four seasons differs in the different counties. Thus in Kent extra-metropolitan, Hants, Hertford, Bedford, and Devon the births are the most numerous in the first quarter of the year.

Boys and Girls.—In every country of any great extent of population the male exceed the female births. In this year 104 boys were born in England to every 100 girls, or 26 boys to 25 girls. In Hertford the proportions were nearly equal; in Berks, Northampton, Gloucester, and Derby as 102 to 100; in Middlesex (extra-metropolitan), Oxford, Westmorland, and Monmouth as 109 to 100; in the small county of Rutland the proportions were 115 to 100.

If the children are distributed into two classes, it is found that the boys born in wedlock are to those born out of wedlock as 13·78 to 1, while the girls of the corresponding classes are as 13·66 to 1.

The reason of the discrepancy is this; the excess of boys born out of wedlock over girls (103·38 to 100) is not so great as the excess of boys among the children born in wedlock (104·28 to 100).

Deaths.

Mortality of Males and Females. The mortality of males during the year 1850 was at the rate of 2·147; of females at the rate of 2·014 per cent. The mortality of males was 2·322 per cent. on an average of 13 years; of females 2·158; and the difference in the two rates is ·164; so the annual mortality of males is nearly 1 in 43; of females 1 in 46.

The Table may be read thus:—in the year 1838 to every 100 males living there were 2·343 deaths of males; to every 100 females living there were 2·136 deaths of females; and to every 100 females who died there were 105 deaths of males. The last column shows the relative mortality of males and females; and that out of equal numbers living the deaths of males was 110 to every 100 deaths of females in 1838.

The number of deaths of males exceeds the number of deaths of females in the proportion of 103 to 100 on an average of 13 years; but while in the two first years (1838–39) the females were as 105 and 104 to 100, in the two last years (1849–50) the proportion of females fell to 101 and 102 to 100. But the number of females in England is greater than the number of males; and if the numbers living of the two sexes were equal the proportions dying would be 108 females to 100 males, over the average of the 13 years; and 107 to 100 in the year 1850.

Mortality at different Ages. Long experience has shown that men die at every age, from the moment of birth to the hundredth year, and the uncertainty of the tenure of life according to the popular notion is the greatest in infancy and in old age, but is nearly equal at the several intermediate stages. The returns of the ages of the whole population of this country in 1841 and 1851, and the registration of the ages at death during every year since 1837, afford an opportunity of determining by exact calculation the law that regulates human mortality; and by that law, as it is exhibited in the annexed Table, it will be observed, that while the rate of mortality is as high in the first five years of life as it is at the advanced age of 65–75, in both males and females, the uncertainty of life increases from the age of puberty through the whole of the intermediate stages of age, at determined and increasing rates. Thus to every 1000 boys of the age of 10 and under 15 in the population, 5 die annually; of 1000 young men of the ages 15–25, 8 die annually; and so the deaths out of the same number living increase every successive ten years of age to 10 at 25–35; 13 at 35–45; 18 at 45–55; 32 at 55–65; 67 at 65–75; 147 at 75–85; 304 at 85–95; 465 at 95 and upwards. The rate of mortality after the age of 55 is doubled, and something more, every ten years; for the chance of dying in a given time is more than twice as great at the age of 70 as it is at the age of 60.

The Table may be read thus:—Of 100 Males living of the age of 35 and under 45, 1·342 died in 1838, 1·255 in 1839, 1·217 in 1841, and so on for other years; a correction for increase of Population having been made for each Age at each Year. The data upon which these Tables are constructed appear in this or have appeared in the previous Reports, and in the Census Report. See Census Report 1851; and the Annual Reports of the Reg. Gen., particularly the 6th.

The mortality of males in the first five years of life exceeds the mortality of females in the proportion of 7 to 6; for 72 of every 1000 boys, and 61 of every 1000 girls, in the population, under five years of age, die annually; and again, at the age 5–10, boys die in rather larger proportions than girls; from the age of ten to the age of thirty-five the mortality is greater among women than it is among men; but after the age of forty-five the mortality of men greatly exceeds the mortality of women.

I refer to the reprint of portions of the quarterly returns in the Appendix for short accounts of the prevalent diseases, and the state of the public health, in the several quarters of the year. The Causes of Death are briefly discussed by Dr. Farr in a letter addressed to me, which will also be found in the Appendix. The number of deaths in the quarters of the thirteen years 1838–1850 are subjoined.

I have the honour to be,
My Lord,
Your faithful Servant,
GEORGE GRAHAM,
Registrar-General.

* The Registration Counties consist of groups of entire Registration Districts; which Districts are, in general, identical with the Poor Law Unions. As the principle adopted has been to place a District or Union which extends into more than one County with the County in which either the principal town or the greater part of the population is located, the limits of the Registration Counties differ more or less from the boundaries of the Counties proper.

* The Districts are collections of contiguous Parishes or Places combined for purposes connected with the Registration of Births, Deaths, and Marriages; and are generally identical with the Poor Law Unions of the same names. The Districts are arranged topographically under the Registration Counties, and are numbered consecutively from 1 to 623, commencing with the Metropolitan Districts, Division I.

Note.—Wherever the minus sign is prefixed to the number in the column headed "Excess of Births over Deaths," it denotes that the Births in the District, instead of exceeding the Deaths, were, in fact, less than the Deaths to the extent stated.

NOTE.—The Sub-districts are sub-divisions of the Districts, and comprise the Parishes or Places in which the Births and Deaths are registered by Registrars severally appointed for that purpose.

The letter W denotes that the Sub-district contains within its limits a Workhouse belonging to the District or Union; w indicates that a Workhouse belonging to another District or Union is included.

Wherever the minus sign (−) is prefixed to the numbers given in the Column headed "Excess of Births over Deaths," it denotes that the Births in the Sub-district, instead of exceeding the Deaths, were, in fact, less than the Deaths to the extent stated.

* The Excess of Deaths over Births in the Sub-districts distinguished thus (*) is attributable to the fact of Hospitals for the sick being situated in them.

In the Table of "Deaths registered at different Ages in the year 1850," pp. 110-149, the Females under the Age "15" should be increased by the addition of 10, and under the Age "75" the same number should be subtracted, in order to correct the return of Ages at Death in England, in Division X., in Cumberland, and in the Whitehaven District (No. 571).

NOTE.—Changes were made in the constitution of several of the districts between 1841 and 1850; the nature and dates of these changes stated for the Districts as they were severally constituted at the end of the year 1850,

* The limits of the Districts distinguished by an asterisk (*) have undergone some change since 1st January 1841. For particulars see in the return for which district the marriages in Hampstead during the years 1841—46 are included.

(a) Kensington (1) and Chelsea (2) formed one district until 7th July 1841; the marriages in the year 1841 are therefore jointly returned.

(b) Hampstead (8) was formerly a sub-district of Edmonton (137).

(c) Farnham (40) and Farnborough (41) formed one district until August 1846; a joint return is therefore given for the years prior to 1847.

* The population, according to the Censuses of 1841 and 1851, is stated for the various subdivisions as they were severally constituted at the end population of England and Wales in 1841 includes 5016 persons (4130 males and 886 females) travelling on the night of June 6th 1841 on railroads included in the enumeration. This circumstance unduly raises the "Increase of population according to the Census Returns."

Whenever the minus sign (–) is prefixed to the numbers in the columns headed "Increase of Population" it denotes that, instead of increasing, 1851, as the case may be.

a Latchford, Grappenhall and Thelwall townships, which contained 3282 persons in 1841 and 3597 in 1851, were transferred from the Daresbury Sub-district (455; 2) and constituted a new Sub-district of the Warrington District (466) 21st October 1845.

b The returns of births and deaths in the Sub-district of Howard Street (461; 2) prior to 1849 cannot be relied upon, several cases of fictitious entries fraudulently made by the Registrar having been detected. The Registrar was tried at the Liverpool Winter Assize of 1848, and sentenced to undergo a term of imprisonment for the felony.

c The Sub-district of St. George (461; 4) was formed 1st July 1841 by the severance of parts of the Dale Street and St. Thomas Sub-districts (461; 3 and 5.)

e The new Union and District of Hemsworth (504 b) was formed 11th November 1850. It consists of parishes and townships taken from the districts of Pontefract (504 a) and the now extinct district of Ecclesfield. The whole of the Ackworth Sub-district, included in Pontefract to November 1850, was thus added to Hemsworth.

f The Barnsley district (505) was formed out of the now extinct District of Ecclesfield, 28th March 1850; when the limits of all the Sub-districts were more or less altered.

g The Wortley District (506) was remodelled 28th March 1850, when two Sub-districts were added to it from the extinct district of Ecclesfield. The limits of the Cawthorne and Wortley Sub-districts were altered at this time.

Chester-le-Street District (548) was divided into three Sub-districts until 18th May 1843, when a re-arrangement of the townships was made, and the present division into two Sub-districts was adopted.

b The returns of births and deaths in the South Shields Sub-district (550; 2) for the years 1841—43 cannot be relied upon, the Registrar having been convicted at the Durham Summer Assizes 1844 of making fictitious entries and forging the signatures of informants. For this offence he was sentenced to twelve months imprisonment, some circumstances having been urged in favour of a lenient sentence.

EXTRACTS

QUARTERLY RETURNS

OF

MARRIAGES, BIRTHS, AND DEATHS

Issued in the Year 1850.

NOTE.—The numbers of Births and Deaths published in these Returns were furnished by the Registrars at the end of each Quarter, when they could not be subjected to revision at the General Register Office; they will be found therefore to differ in some instances from the more correct numbers now given in the preceding Abstracts.

OF

THE MARRIAGES, BIRTHS, AND DEATHS,

IN ENGLAND.

The following Return comprises the Births and Deaths which were Registered in all the Districts of England by 2189 Registrars, in the Winter Quarter ending March 31*st*, 1850; and the Marriages in above 12000 chapels and churches, 2869 registered places of worship unconnected with the Established Church, and 623 Superintendent Registrars' offices, in the Quarter ending December 31*st*, 1849.

The Return of marriages is incomplete; but the numbers wanting are inconsiderable, and have been supplied from the previous years. Returns of the births and deaths have been received from every Registrar.

While the returns of the exports, imports, and revenue furnish good indications of the production, consumption, and commerce of great classes in the country,—the marriages, births, and deaths supply a surer test of the condition of the whole population. It is gratifying to find that the general results of both classes of returns are favourable. The marriages, which in 1847 were so much depressed, and increased almost imperceptibly in 1848,—rose to

* The numbers up to 1847 have appeared in the Annual Reports.

141599 in the year 1849; and in the autumn quarter were 43632; which is a higher number than has ever before been celebrated, excepting in the autumn quarter of 1845. The deaths have also declined; they were 98607. The country, which, after the failure of the potato crop in 1846, was covered with funerals—in the train of a multitude of diseases and of two great epidemics, the fatal influenza of 1847–8, and the more deadly cholera of 1849—is now in health again. The deaths in the first quarter of 1850 were less by 21065 and 21414 than the deaths in the corresponding quarters of 1847 and 1848. Fewer children have been left fatherless; fewer parents have been bereaved of their children. Sickness and suffering—though perhaps not precisely in the same ratio as the mortality—have diminished. The skilled and active industry of the kingdom has been less interrupted by the illness of workmen and the incapacity of masters; the parishes have had fewer poor to relieve; the friendly societies fewer sick members to support; insurance societies less to pay on policies: everything dependent on the duration of human life has been relieved of pressure; the minds of the people have not been irritated by hunger, fever, and discontent.

The improvement in the state of the public health may be ascribed to various causes. The season was natural. January and March were cold, as they usually are in England; February warm; the three months were dry and bracing. The great epidemics subsided in 1849. Their force was perhaps expended. It is usual to say that they carry away the weak; but to this it should be added, that their attacks leave much weakness behind them. Then although, as hitherto has always been the case, much more has been said than done in the way of sanatory improvement, undoubtedly many houses, streets, and cities have been purified. Some flagrant nuisances have been suppressed, and have not had time to reaccumulate.

† The Table may be read thus, without reference to the decimal points:—In the year 1848, to 100000 of the population of England, there were 790 marriages, 3222 births, 2289 deaths registered.—The annual rates of marriage in each of the 4 quarters were ·653, ·798, ·748, and ·952 per cent.; the rates of death 2·770, 2·294, 1·990, and 2·090 per cent. In reading the population on the first line add 3 ciphers (000). The 3 months January, February, March, contain 90, in leap year 91 days; the 3 months April, May, June 91 days; each of the 2 last quarters of the year 92 days. For this inequality, a correction has been made in the calculation. It was assumed that the population increased at the same rate as the females increased in 1831—41, namely 1·332 per cent. annually, or ·331 quarterly. So $\frac{1}{4} \lambda r =$ ·0014370.

Food too has been abundant. The high prices of provisions in 1847, when wheat was on an average 70*s.* a quarter in England, and potatoes still dearer, induced agriculturalists everywhere to extend the breadth of land under culture in 1848, which, as the crops were scanty, did not then produce an amount of subsistence sufficient for the population. The agricultural returns, which by the command of the Lord-Lieutenant have been so ably digested by Captain Larcom, show how much this culture was extended in Ireland; 872038 acres of land were under wheat and potatoes in 1847, and 1308645 acres were under the same cultivation in 1848; while the produce, which was 2385308 tons in 1847, was 3269689 tons in 1848, without supplying the ordinary wants of the people.*

No attempt has been made to procure returns of the breadth of land or the produce in England; and the Irish returns of 1849 have not yet been made up; but there can be little doubt that all over Europe the breadth of land under potatoes, wheat, and the other cereals, in that year, was sufficient to yield, on average crops, enough food to supply the markets. The crops were generally above the average; the potato did not fail; and the supply of wheat was consequently superabundant, so that prices fell lower than they have been since 1835. The general advantages of abundance are unequivocal: but whether the part of the population which is engaged in producing food for sale, procure as much money for the good crops of 1849 as they procured for the scanty bad food with which the markets of many counties were supplied in 1848, or for average crops, is uncertain, and must always remain uncertain, until a comprehensive system of agricultural statistics is organized. No one can imagine, however, for a moment because wheat was at 51*s.* a quarter in 1848, and 44*s.* a quarter in 1849, that the value of the produce was in that ratio; for if 10 million quarters of wheat at 51*s.* are worth 25½ million pounds, evidently 11590000 quarters at 44*s.* will be worth the same sum. This relation must hold if prices are in the inverse ratio of the quantities in the market; and if the price varies more than the quantity, it is nevertheless clear that the value of the produce will vary within a narrower limit than the price. The returns from the agricultural districts exhibit an improved state in the health of the great body of the inhabitants; and there is nothing in the facts, which can justify us in refusing to ascribe a part of the improvement to the comparatively abundant supply of the necessaries of life.

The following remarks made by the Registrars of the respective districts, are all of any consequence that refer to the economical and sanatory condition of the people:—

Islington, Middlesex; Islington East.—The labourers begin to have more work, which has been very slack during the first half-quarter. Good bread is obtained now for 5½*d.* the 4lbs. loaf.

St. George-in-the-East, Middlesex; St. Mary.—There appear to be a less number of persons out of employment; provisions are cheaper, are more attainable; improvements have been made by the local authorities in the paving and cleansing of the streets and places in this district, chiefly inhabited by the poor and working classes. These circumstances have probably produced an improved condition of the public health.

Heavitree; St. Thomas.—The district is healthy and without epidemic. The poor suffer much, and labour is scarce.

Stoke Damerel; St. Aubyn.—Cholera, in the quarter ending September, 1849, carried off a number of females in different stages of pregnancy, and a number of sickly persons who would probably have lingered till about this time.

Gainsborough; Misterton.—The deaths are much below the average, and form the smallest number ever registered by me in a quarter. Perhaps this may be partly attributed to the sanitary arrangements enforced during the prevalence of the cholera, but to which it is to be feared that sufficient attention will not hereafter be given.

Basford; Bulwell.—The union medical officer gives it me as his opinion, that he never knew the district more healthy; that out of a population of nearly 8000 persons, he has not at this time one sick person chargeable to the Union to attend. He attributes the health of the people chiefly to their increased comforts, caused by the low price of provisions and plenty of work; and he expects if sanitary arrangements are still attended to, and other circumstances continue favourable, further benefits will accrue.

Martley; Martley.—The deaths are much below the average. No cause is apparent, except reduction in the price of food, which I certainly think has promoted the public health.

* The counties of Tipperary and Waterford made no returns in 1848; their returns for 1847 have been deducted from the gross returns of Ireland 1847. See returns of Agricultural produce in Ireland, 1847-1848 presented to Parliament by Command of Her Majesty.

STOCKPORT; Hazelgrove.—The people are well employed, especially the silk weavers.

BOLTON; Eastern Bolton.—The return of the births and deaths exhibits a small increase, as compared with the average of corresponding quarters of the last 3 years, which I attribute to a movement of the population in consequence of an improved state of trade.

CHORLTON; Hulme.—I have reason to suppose, that the practice of drugging children with narcotics is much on the decline in this neigbourhood. Perhaps the exposure of its pernicious consequences, by some of the Registrars' remarks in their quarterly returns, may have done much towards suppressing the evil. The diseases of infants are more generally placed under the treatment of qualified practitioners, hence perhaps the reason why we have latterly had fewer deaths of infants registered. This improvement, I think, may in a great measure be attributed to the requirement of medical certificates of the cause of death. The profession in this neighbourhood very willingly and promptly supply those certificates, and my registration will show that comparatively few deaths are recorded where the cause of death has not been duly certified.

MANCHESTER; Market-street.—It is gratifying to state that the condition of the working classes has been much ameliorated. The only drawback seems to be a deficiency of employment in some occupations, but this source of dissatisfaction, in the opinion of many, will not long continue.

TODMORDEN; Hebden Bridge.—Numerous families are leaving this district for other districts, in order to get more work and better wages.

BRADFORD; Pudsey.—The births and deaths have been rather above the average, which perhaps may be accounted for by an improvement in trade causing an influx of inhabitants.

There were great fluctuations in the meteorology—the temperature and dryness were nowhere the same: some parishes were covered with fogs and clouds, while in others the sun was shining on the fields and meadows—the rains, hails, winds, storms, lightnings, thunders, auroras, and lights over the face of the island everywhere varied in order, time, and intensity. So the yield of the crops in different districts varied; in some it was sound, in others blasted; in some scanty, in others thirtyfold. The profits of the multifarious occupations of the people rise and fall by the same law of change; and the more there is of speculation the greater is the range of profits and prices. The agriculturalists speculating on the high prices of 1847, and the possibility of the loss of a great article of consumption, insured the people of Europe against the contingency of starvation. The people have gained: and if the underwriters have lost this year, is it not probable that they will win in the long run the just rewards of their high calling and noble enterprise?

The appearance of scurvy in 1847, and the experience of the navy, prove that esculent roots, fruit and vegetables, cannot be foregone without impairing the public health; and it will be a great and dangerous mistake to forget that the potato is at present an essential article of food, which can only be partially replaced by bread and meat. Yet this corruptible crop may any year be destroyed; and the analogy between the disease, and diseases of the zymotic class in animals and men, renders the risk of its periodical recurrence so considerable, that for some time to come the producers and consumers of subsistence should every year inquire: "What will be the price of food, and how can the population of the United Kingdom be fed, if the potato crop should fail?"

Cholera was fatal in only a few cases during the quarter. 13 persons died of the disease and of diarrhœa in Bishop Auckland, 7 in St. Oswald, Durham; and a few cases were also met with in Wye, East Ashford; Mitchelmersh, Romsey; Kilmersdon, Frome; St. George, Liverpool; London-road, Manchester; Oldham-below-Town; Lancaster; Hebden Bridge, Todmorden; Thornhill, Dewsbury; St. Nicholas, Durham. The epidemic which was so fatal in 1831–2 broke out again in 1833, and raged in summer. Under these circumstances the wisest course for the people to pursue is to indulge no more dread of cholera than if it had for ever disappeared; but at the same time to use the same vigilance, and to take the same sanatory precautions as if it were certain to recur—as it probably will—at intervals, until all our cities are thoroughly drained, are supplied with pure water, and breathe a sweet untainted atmosphere. London is but a type of other towns, and how far London is from this condition is too evident to the senses; the polluted water of the Thames, the damp soil, the stinking sewers, the burial-grounds, the markets, all throw noxious vapours into the air, which silently sap the health of the inhabitants, destroy thousands of lives, and like the gaseous mixture in mines, though often entered with apparent impunity, are ever ready to explode with destructive violence,—in the form of fevers, of influenza, of cholera, or of any other epidemic abroad.

The sanification of our cities is a great heroic work, and may, perhaps, yet be achieved before the present generation has passed away.

The annual rate of mortality in the first quarters of the 11 years 1840–50 was 2·754 per cent., in 117 districts, comprising the chief towns; and 2·222 per cent. in the districts of small towns and country parishes; in 1850, the mortality in the first class of districts fell to 2·401 per cent., and in the second class of districts, to 2·067 per cent. In the most favourable winter quarter which has been experienced since 1846, the mortality of the inhabitants of towns exceeds the mortality of the rest of the country by 16 per cent.

INCREASE OF POPULATION.

The 144,602 births exceeded the 98,607 deaths in the quarter by 45,995; and from a return with which the Registrar General has been favoured by the Emigration Commissioners, it appears that 46,423 emigrants left the ports of the United Kingdom, at which there are Government Emigration Offices. Of these, 40,927 left English ports; but it is probable that great numbers were of Irish extraction.

[a] In 1841 the Military in Barracks, Hospitals, Guard-houses, &c., were included in the returns for the several parishes in which those institutions were situated; in 1831 they were not enumerated as part of the population of the parishes, but were returned in the General Summary of Great Britain. The number of Males in Barracks, &c., of 15 Years of age and upwards (nearly all Military), in 1841, is here stated, in order that by excluding them from the returns for that year the increase of population since 1831 may be more precisely ascertained.

[b] The Parish of Babington (containing 163 persons in 1841) was transferred from Shepton Mallet (322) to Frome (321), October 21st, 1845.
[c] The decrease of population between 1831 and 1841 in the Districts of Dursley (333) and Stroud (338) is attributed to the decline of the West of England cloth manufacture.
* Nine Marriages to be added to the above number. The return was not received in time for insertion in this table.

NOTE.—The first 13 weeks of 1850, constituting the March quarter in the Weekly Tables of Mortality, ended March 30th, in which 13219 deaths were registered. In the quarter ending March 31st (p. 7), 12976 deaths were registered.

* The mortality of the districts of Lewisham and Hampstead was included in the Metropolitan Returns at the commencement of 1847, for the first time; therefore the deaths for the previous year are not contained in the above table. In the Quarter ending March 1846, they were 142.

† Under the head of sudden deaths are classed not only deaths described as sudden, of which the cause has not been ascertained or stated; but also all deaths returned by the coroner in vague terms, such as "found dead," "natural causes," &c., &c.

‡ In the years previous to 1848, "worms" and "infantile fever" were classed together. The former, of very rare occurrence, is now placed to diseases of stomach, &c.

Remarks on the Weather during the Quarter ending March 31, 1850.

By James Glaisher, Esq., F.R.S., F.R.A.S., of the Royal Observatory, Greenwich.

The mean daily temperatures of the air till January 24 were below their average values, the mean deficiency was 4°·6; from January 25 to March 13 they were above their average values, the mean excess was 5°·8; and from March 14 they were below their average values, the mean deficiency was 6°·2. The mean temperature of January 15 was 11° below; of February 1, 2, 3, 8, 9, and 15 was 15°, 17°, 12°, 14°, 14°, and 15° above, respectively; and of March 17 and 25 was 11° on both days below the averages of the same days in 7 years. At the beginning and towards the end of the quarter there was much snow; the amount of rain fallen is less than usual, particularly in March. The weather was mild in February, and severe towards the end of March. The mean temperature of the 3 months ending February, constituting the winter months, was 39°·2, and that of the average of 79 preceding winters is 37°·6.

Zodiacal light has been seen on February 3rd, 4th, 7th, 9th, 10th, 11th, 12th, 13th, 20th 26th, and on almost every clear evening in March. Its boundary was noticed at Stone on March 4th, at 7h. 10m. P.M.; its apex reached to the Plœiades; its N. side passed by α Arietis and γ Pegasi; its S. side passed by η and β Ceti. The sun seemed to be in the centre of its base; its axis was coincident with the ecliptic. The light seemed to move northward as it was going down with the stars.

The direction of the wind at Greenwich was S.W. on January 5th, passing at the rate of 86 miles daily; it was N.E. from January 6th to January 21st, passing at the rate of 80 miles daily; it was mostly S.W. from January 21st to March 7th, with an average daily motion of 155 miles; and from March 8th the direction was variable, with an average motion of 70 miles.

The mean of the numbers in the first column is 29·847 inches, and it represents that portion of the reading of the barometer due to the pressure of air; the remaining portion, or that due to the pressure of water, is 0·224 inch; the sum of those two numbers, is 30·071 inches, and it represents the mean reading of the barometer, for the quarter at the level of the sea.

The highest reading of the thermometer in air, was 62°, at Aylesbury and Wakefield; the lowest reading was 10°, at South ampton and Latimer. The extreme range of temperature during the quarter in England was therefore almost 52°.

The least daily ranges of temperature took place at Guernsey and Liverpool; and the greatest at Aylesbury and Latimer.

The least monthly ranges of temperature occurred at Guernsey and Liverpool; and the greatest at Southampton, Wakefield, and Latimer.

Rain fell in the least number of days at Hawarden, Rose Hill, near Oxford, and Oxford; the average number of these places was 18. It fell on the greatest number of days, at Whitehaven and Stonyhurst; the average number of these places was 45. The stations at which the largest falls took place were Stonyhurst, Whitehaven, and Falmouth; the average amount at these places was 9·4 in. The smallest falls occurred at Stone, Saffron Walden, and Oxford; the average was 2·4 in.

THE MARRIAGES, BIRTHS, AND DEATHS, IN ENGLAND.

This Return comprises the Births and Deaths registered by 2189 registrars in all the districts of England during the Spring quarter ending June 30th, 1850; and the Marriages in more than 12000 churches or chapels, 2869 registered places of worship unconnected with the Established Church, and 623 Superintendent Registrars' offices, in the quarter which ended March 31st, 1850.

The return of Marriages is not complete; but the numbers wanting are inconsiderable, and have been supplied from the returns of previous years.

MARRIAGES.

The marriages were 30425 in the quarter that ended on March 31st, 1850; the marriages in the corresponding quarters of 1847–8–9, were 27480, 28398, 28270. The number of marriages in the first quarter of 1850 was only once exceeded in the 11 corresponding quarters of 1839–49; and correcting for increase, the proportion of marriages to population is shown to be much higher in the first quarter of 1850 than in any corresponding quarter since 1839, except in the March quarters of 1845, 1846, when the labouring classes were in full employment.

It is often stated that the marriages of a country increase after epidemics; which by destroying the heads of families "make room" for new establishments. This theory derives little countenance from the English returns, for the greatest increase that has latterly been observed in marriages took place in 1844–5–6, after a period of low mortality; while the marriages fell and showed no disposition to rise after the high mortality which prevailed from the middle of 1846 to the middle of 1847, and again from influenza at the close of 1847 and the first quarter of 1848. The increase of the marriages in 1850 is therefore probably due, not to the cholera, but to the improved prospects of the people, which it has been before shown, so often lead to this result. The marriages increased in Brighton, Cheltenham, Norwich, Birmingham, Leicester, Nottingham, Derby, and Sheffield; while cholera was not fatal in 1849 to many heads of families in any of these towns. In Merthyr Tydfil, Salisbury, Leeds, and Manchester, cholera was fatal in 1849, and the marriages increased in 1850; but in Hull and Liverpool, where cholera also reigned, the marriages declined, or were stationary, in the first two quarters of the year 1850.

† The Table may be read thus, without reference to the decimal points:—In the year 1848, to 100000 of the population of England, there were 791 marriages, 3222 births, 2289 deaths registered.—The annual rates of marriage in each of the 4 quarters were ·655, ·799, ·748, and ·952 per cent.; the rates of death 2·770, 2·294, 1·990, and 2·090 per cent. In reading the population on the first line add 3 ciphers (000). The 3 months January, February, March, contain 90, in leap year 91 days; the 3 months April, May, June 91 days; each of the 2 last quarters of the year 92 days. For this inequality, a correction has been made in the calculation. It was assumed that the population increased at the same rate as the females increased in 1831—41, namely 1·332 per cent. annually, or ·331 quarterly. So $\frac{1}{4} \lambda r = \cdot 0014370$.

BIRTHS.

The births registered in the quarter that ended March 31st, 1850, were 144602; in the quarter that ended June 30th, 155727. Births are always more numerous in the first than in the second half of the year; and from 1840 to 1845 the births registered in the first quarters were more numerous than those registered in the second quarters of the 6 years; but in 1846, 8, 9, 50, a change has taken place, and the excess of births has been thrown upon the June quarters. The number of births in the June quarter of 1850 is the greatest ever registered in England in the same time. The annual rate of births is obtained by comparing the number of children born in a given time with the corrected population. It was in the last June quarter 3·489 per cent., which is the same as the rate in the corresponding quarter of 1849; and less than that in the June quarter of 1846; but much more than in any other June quarter of the years 1839--1850.

INCREASE OF POPULATION.

In the quarter ending June 1850, the births registered were 155727; the deaths registered were 93005; the excess of births over deaths was 62722.

The natural increase of the population was 62722, without taking into account the births of children who may have escaped registration. In the same period the number of emigrants from London, Plymouth, and Liverpool (the only English ports at which there are Government emigration officers), was 61778*. It might hence be inferred that the population of England was stationary; but a great number of the 50156 emigrants from Liverpool were, it is believed, from Ireland, and there has been for many years an uninterrupted stream of Irish immigration, which has replaced the emigrants of English origin; so that notwithstanding the emigration, the population of England increased at a faster rate from 1831 to 1841, than the probable excess of births over deaths would imply.

STATE OF THE PUBLIC HEALTH.

The mortality is now, it is gratifying to report, much below the average. It has not been so low in any of the corresponding quarters since 1837, when the new system of registration commenced, except in the quarter ending June 1844. The rate of mortality per cent. per annum in the quarter was 2·084. At this rate one in 192 persons died in the last three months; in 1847 one in 161 persons died in the same time. This shows clearly how much the risk of life has declined. The average chance of living through the three months April, May, June, among persons of all ages is 179 to 1.

93005 deaths were registered in the quarter ending June; while the deaths in the corresponding quarters of the four previous years were 90231, 106718, 99730, 102249. The improved state of the public health has been general; the eastern is the only division in which the deaths of 1850 slightly exceeded the deaths in the corresponding June quarter of 1849. The most considerable decrease is observed in London, and in the north-western division, comprising Cheshire and Lancashire. The improvement in the public health is not confined to the parts which were visited by the epidemic cholera in 1849, as will be apparent upon examining the returns in detail.

Cholera was most fatal in the following town-districts, and chiefly in the September quarter of 1849. The deaths from all causes are given below:—

June Quarter.	1846	1847	1848	1849	1850
London . . .	11,345	12,300	12,943	13,023	11,247

If there is a diminution in the mortality of the above town districts, where, according to a prevalent theory, cholera carried off the unsound lives, there is a similar diminution in the rate of mortality of other large towns, where cholera did not prevail to any great extent:—

A further examination is required before the causes of this improvement can be eliminated; but it may be safely affirmed that they act generally, and have been by no means confined to districts decimated previously by the epidemics either of cholera or influenza.

The Registrars in their notes refer to sanatory measures, to the state of employment, and to other circumstances which affect the social condition of the people, as probable causes of the happy improvement in the public health. The registrar of Llanelly refers to the depressed state of the iron trade in his district; but this is a solitary case; and the general tone of the notes is, as expressed by the registrar of Kington, that "the people are employed, and feel the great blessing of cheap and plentiful provisions." The following are the chief notes of importance referring to this subject:—

285; 2. KINGSBRIDGE; Stokenham. Scarlatina prevailed among children. A farmer who has a great dungyard close by the entrance of his dwelling-house, had 3 children lying dead at one time of this malady. No wonder that malignant diseases should at times appear, when almost every cottage has a pigsty attached to it.

381; 5. WEST BROMWICH; Wednesbury. The district is at present healthy, but the drainage is bad, and the supply of water for the poor insufficient.

392; 3. BROMSGROVE; Tardebigg. There has been a great improvement in the health of the district, and a diminution of the number of deaths, since the sanatory movement of 1848 and 1849. Although the population has considerably increased, the deaths for the last 18 months are only as 2 to 3. compared to what they were during the 10 preceding years. The increased population, which renders the reduction in the number of deaths the more remarkable, will account, in conjunction with a great improvement in the trade of the district, for the augmentation in the number of births.

400; 2. COVENTRY; Holy Trinity. The deaths are decidedly below the average. For some time past the staple trades of Coventry, ribbon weaving and watchmaking, have been remarkably good, and there has been "no complaining in our streets."

416; 3. BARROW-UPON-SOAR; Rothley. The Union workhouse is in this district, and the number of in-door poor is less than was ever known before; the births and deaths are therefore fewer than otherwise they would have been.

438; 5. BASFORD; Arnold.—The working classes are in far better circumstanees than they have been for several years past, and sanatory improvements have been made by the officers chosen for the purpose.

461; 3. LIVERPOOL; Dale Street.—The district is in a healthy condition, which may perhaps be attributed to the sanatory operations that have been excellently carried out. There were one fatal case of cholera and 17 of fever.

461; 4. LIVERPOOL; St. George.—The deaths are fewer by 33 than they were in the June quarter of last year, and the births are 22 more. So that life appears to be under more favourable conditions, to which, no doubt, the sanatory regulations adopted here have much contributed.

465; 2. WIGAN; Aspull.—A very healthy quarter. Great improvements are being made by the authorities in the removal of nuisances.

465; 3. WIGAN; Wigan.—The town on the whole appears to be more than usually healthy. The authorities are bestirring themselves in the removal of nuisances; many have already been removed, and a great number are being got rid of. Cottage owners in many parts of the town have been compelled to make sewers.

468; 10. BOLTON; Little Bolton.—The births are about 20 per cent. more than the average of the corresponding quarters of the last 12 years, which is mainly attributable to abundant employment being had in every branch of manufacture, and a movement of the population to this immediate neighbourhood. The deaths are more than 20 per cent. above the average for the same period. Measles has been very prevalent.

469; 7. BURY; North Bury.—The greatest number of births, and the least of deaths, registered in any quarter. The weather has been very fine, and sanatory arrangments are in rapid progress.

471; 4. CHORLTON; Hulme.—When the great increase in the population of this district is taken into consideration, and the number of deaths registered is contrasted with the number of births, the return shows a remarkably healthy state of the neighbourhood. The abundant supply, and good quality, of all articles of sustenance at moderate prices, and the beneficial effect of employment, which has been pretty general among various classes, have doubtless contributed to the healthy condition of the people; but perhaps the principal cause has been the dry state of the atmosphere, and the steady advance of temperature, without sudden or excessive variations.

473; 4. MANCHESTER; Market-street.—It is most gratifying to state that both crime and pauperism have greatly declined.

477; 1. HASLINGDEN; Newchurch.—The deaths have been below the average. The decrease seems to have arisen in consequence of the mildness of the weather and cheapness of provisions.

481; 4. CHORLEY; Chorley.—The births are above the average, which appears to be owing to an increase in the population. Operatives have been for some months past in demand, chiefly as weavers and cotton spinners. The deaths are below the average, the district having been free from any epidemic.

483; 3. FYLDE; Poulton-le-Fylde.—On the whole the sub-district is tolerably healthy, the labouring classes having plenty of work and cheap provisions.

499; 11. BRADFORD; Idle. The deaths are about the average, but the births are considerably above it. The cause of increase appears to be the improved condition of the people, from having more regular employment, better wages, and cheaper food.

501; 2. LEEDS; North Leeds. At present there does not appear to be any epidemic, the district being in a very healthy state, which may be partially attributed to some improvement having been made, for during the last nine months a great many streets have been thoroughly drained and cleansed, which were for many years previously in a very filthy state.

601; 4. CRICKHOWELL; Llanelly. The returns are rather below the average of corresponding quarters. The iron trade has been a little depressed.

603; 3. PRESTEIGNE; Kington. There have been a few cases of typhus in the town in a lodging-house, owing to an offensive drain near the place, which I have reported to the authorities. No epidemic has prevailed, and this district is at present in a very satisfactory state. The people are all employed, and feel the great blessing of cheap and plentiful provisions.

Although vaccination is actively promoted by the Poor Law Board, is now performed at the public expense, and affords almost complete immunity from small-pox, it is still neglected to a great extent by the ignorant classes of society. According to an ancient and popular theory, the disease is the elaboration of some morbid principle from the system; which can only be delivered in this way from its influence. The objections to vaccination grounded upon the theory are, however, now deprived of all their force by the able and satisfactory investigations of Mr. Ceeley of Aylesbury. Mr. Ceeley has proved beyond doubt that small-pox and cow-pox are essentially the same disease. He introduced the matter of small-pox, taken from man, into the cow, and produced pustules; which supplied lymph and raised pustules in children possessing the properties of cow-pox; and which have served since for all the purposes of vaccination. Cow-pox then is a modified small-pox; and removes any morbid matter from the system as effectually as the more severe, deforming, fatal type of malady. Some of the objections are excuses for negligence; others are based on a sort of fatalism; but such cases as the registrar of Nottingham records are criminal, and it is to be feared spring from the same cruelty as leads to the sacrifice of children's lives in other circumstances. A woman there who had lost a child by the disease, assured the registrar that "she would rather lose half-a-dozen children by it than fly in the face of Providence, in having one vaccinated!"

[a] In 1841 the Military in Barracks, Hospitals, Guard-houses, &c., were included in the returns for the several parishes in which those institutions were situated; in 1831 they were not enumerated as part of the population of the parishes, but were returned in the General Summary of Great Britain. The number of Males in Barracks, &c., of 15 Years of age and upwards (nearly all Military), in 1841, is here stated, in order that by excluding them from the returns for that year the increase of population since 1831 may be more precisely ascertained.

NOTE.—The 13 weeks of 1850, constituting the June quarter in the Weekly Tables of Mortality, ended June 29th, in which 11238 deaths were registered. In the quarter ending June 30th (p. 39), 11247 deaths were registered.

* The mortality of the districts of Lewisham and Hampstead was included in the Metropolitan Returns at the commencement of 1847, for the first time; therefore the deaths for the previous year are not contained in the above table. In the Quarter ending June 1846, they were 152.

† Under the head of sudden deaths are classed not only deaths described as sudden, of which the cause has not been ascertained or stated; but also all deaths returned by the coroner in vague terms, such as "found dead," "natural causes," &c., &c.

‡ In the years previous to 1848, "worms" and "infantile fever" were classed together. The former, of very rare occurrence, is now placed to diseases of stomach, &c.

Remarks on the Weather during the Quarter ending June 30, 1850.

By James Glaisher, Esq., F.R.S., Hon. Secretary of the British Meteorological Society.

The mean daily temperatures of the air till April 21 were above their average values, the mean excess was 4°·3, and during this period there was no frost; from April 22nd to May 16th the temperature was below its average value, its mean deficiency was 5°; from May 17th to June 9th the temperature was about its average value; on June 11 it was nearly 8° above the average; this was succeeded by very cold weather, and the temperature on the 15th was nearly 13° below its average; snow fell on this day at some places. Between June 18th and the 26th there was an excess of temperature of 6°·3, and after this time the temperature was again below the average.

The mean temperature of the 3 months ending May, constituting the spring months, was 46°·6, being very nearly that of the average of 79 preceeding years.

OF

THE MARRIAGES, BIRTHS, AND DEATHS IN ENGLAND.

THIS Return comprises the BIRTHS and DEATHS registered by 2189 registrars in all the districts of England during the Summer quarter ending September 30th, 1850; and the MARRIAGES in more than 12000 churches or chapels, 2869 registered places of worship unconnected with the Established Church, and 623 Superintendent Registrars' offices, in the quarter that ended June 30th, 1850.

The return of Marriages is not complete; but the defects are inconsiderable, and have been supplied from previous years.

The general result of the return is favourable in a high degree: the Marriages in the Spring quarter are more numerous than in any corresponding quarter of the last 12 years; so also are the births in the Summer quarter; and the deaths are 86044 instead of 135358, which they were in the quarter ending September 1849, when cholera ravaged the chief towns of the kingdom.

MARRIAGES, BIRTHS, and DEATHS, returned in the Years 1839–50, and in the Quarters of those Years.

* The numbers up to 1848 have appeared in the Annual Reports.

The decrease of deaths implies necessarily the decrease of sickness and suffering; the increase of Marriages and Births indicates improvement in the condition and prospects of the great body of the people.

MARRIAGES.

The marriages in all England in the quarter ending June 30th, 1850, were 39018. The numbers in the Spring quarter declined rapidly from 1846 to 1848, and rose still more rapidly up to 1850; thus following and portraying the state of the country. London, Cheshire, Lancashire, the West Riding of Yorkshire, and South Wales, presented the greatest fluctuations, and the greatest increase of marriages in the June quarter 1850. The marriages increased in Middlesex, Hertford, and Buckingham; in Essex and Suffolk the marriages declined, as they did also in Devon and Cornwall; in Shropshire, Staffordshire, Worcestershire, and Warwickshire,—the coal and iron regions—the marriages increased; they increased also in Leicestershire, Nottinghamshire, and Derbyshire,—the seats of the thread, lace, and other manufactures. In the great agricultural county of Lincoln the fluctuation was in an opposite direction; the marriages rose from June 1846 to June 1848, and then declined. † The Table may be read thus, without reference to the decimal points:—In the year 1848, to 100000 of the population of England, there were 791 marriages, 3222 births, 2288 deaths registered.—The annual rates of marriage in each of the 4 quarters were ·655, ·799, ·748, and ·952 per cent.; the rates of death 2·771, 2·294, 1·987, and 2·090 per cent. In reading the population on the first line add 3 ciphers (000). The 3 months January, February, March, contain 90, in leap year 91 days; the 3 months April, May, June 91 days; each of the 2 last quarters of the year 92 days. For this inequality, a correction has been made in the calculation. It was assumed that the population increased at the same rate as the females increased in 1831—41, namely 1·332 per cent. annually, or ·331 quarterly. So $\frac{1}{4} \lambda r$ = ·0014370.

berland, and Westmorland, in Monmouthshire, and North Wales, the marriages increased in 1850. The marriages in Portsmouth and Plymouth declined; in Bristol and Cheltenham they increased; in Stoke-upon-Trent (the potteries), in Coventry, and in Birmingham, Liverpool, and Manchester, the increase was considerable. It was still greater in Leeds; Halifax and Sheffield shared in the general advance. Hull, Wolverhampton, and Salisbury —where cholera was exceedingly fatal in 1849—have little more than the average marriages.

BIRTHS.

146970 births were registered in the quarter which ended in September. The births are invariably more numerous in the first and second than in the third and fourth quarters of the year; and they are in the last, fewer by 8757 than in the previous (June) quarter; the number and the proportion to the population are, however, greater in this than in any of the corresponding quarters since 1839. The increase of births is greatest in London, in the West-Midland Counties, and in the North-Western Counties—Cheshire and Lancashire.

INCREASE OF POPULATION.

The excess of births registered over deaths in the quarter was 60926; which if all the births were registered would be the natural increase of the population. In the same time 53703 emigrants sailed from three ports of England; 1394 from Plymouth, 7684 from London, and 44625 from Liverpool.* This leaves a narrow margin for the increase of population; but many of the emigrants entered at the English ports are from Ireland; which has been for many years diffusing a stream of natives over England as well as America. The progress of the whole fixed and moving population of the country can only be determined accurately from a comparison of the returns of births and deaths, of emigrants and immigrants, with periodical enumerations.

STATE OF THE PUBLIC HEALTH.

The mortality is much below the average; and the public health has never been so good since 1845, as in the present quarter. The rate of mortality is 1·901 per cent. per annum. At this rate one in 211 persons living died in 3 months. The chances of living through this quarter were 210 to 1; the average chances of living through 3 summer months (1839–50), for persons of all ages, being 192 to 1.

The rate of mortality in 506 districts, comprising chiefly small towns and country parishes, was 1·693 per cent. per annum in the quarter; the average summer rate (1840–50), being 1·832 per cent.

* From a Return with which the Registrar-General has been favoured by the Emigration Commissioners.

The rate of mortality in 117 districts, comprising the large towns, was 2·206 per cent. per annum; the average rate (1840–50), being 2·517 per cent.

The juxta-position of the figures in the table suggests the melancholy reflection that more than seven millions of people, inhabiting the metropolis and all the cities and great centres of industry, are still exposed to a mortality which is not inherent in their nature, but is due to the artificial circumstances in which they are placed. The waters, the sewers, the soils, the churchyards, the houses emit poisons. To every 10 natural deaths, 4 violent deaths—deaths from these poisonous exhalations—are superadded.

Still after the scarcity—after the great epidemics of influenza—and after the catastrophe of last year, the return even to the wonted degree of health is a relief to the nation; and health above the average, not only in places scourged by cholera, but in nearly all the towns of the country, is cheering, as it seems to show at once that the imperfect sanatory measures in progress are already beneficial, that the country is recovering from its loss, and that the wants of the people are now more abundantly supplied than they have been of late years.

The deaths in London during the 13 weeks ending September 1846-7-8-9-50 were 12409, 13187, 13503, 27109, and 11578. The zymotic diseases were fatal to 3011 persons in the last quarter, and it is chiefly, if not exclusively, to the diminished intensity of these maladies, that the improvement in the health of the inhabitants of London is ascribable. Small-pox destroyed 109 lives, measles 178, scarlatina 316, hooping-cough 300, croup 57, thrush 59, diarrhœa 1161, dysentery 73, and cholera 87. The deaths from diarrhœa in the same time last year were 2457; the deaths from cholera in the five summer quarters of 1846–50 were 197, 98, 153, 12847, and 87; so that fewer persons died of the disease in summer 1850, than in the summer quarters of 1846–7–8. Nine deaths from purpura and scurvy were returned; or less than half the number returned in the Summer quarter of 1847. The decrease of scurvy is a favourable symptom; it always demands attention, as nothing is more threatening to the health of large bodies of people, than a disease which involves the whole fluids of the body, and is the precursor of the most fatal epidemics.

26 deaths from poison, 26 from burns and scalds, 53 from hanging and suffocation, 94 from drowning, 137 from fractures and contusions, 19 from wounds, and 19 from other violence were registered. The increase in the deaths from hanging, strangling, and suffocation is considerable. The increase in the deaths by poison also deserves attention. Some alteration of the law to regulate the sale of poisons seems to be required. Arsenic is tasteless in food; it is inevitably fatal; it can be detected in the body after death; and it can be procured by any person in shops almost as readily as sugar. The placing of the sale of a commodity under restrictions is attended with difficulties; but to nip in its bud the practice of domestic murder by the administration of a tasteless poison is worth the effort, and will count against much inconvenience.

The deaths in the workhouses, hospitals, and other public institutions, were 2407, 1953, and 1719, in the three quarters of the year 1850: and of the 6079, 3498 were males, and 2581 females. One in six deaths of the inhabitants of London took place in public institutions during the three quarters.

The mortality was generally low in the South-Eastern and Midland Counties. Southampton suffered severely from scarlatina. Essex was visited by diarrhœa, and a few cases of cholera; Norwich suffered from a severe epidemic of scarlatina. The poor, whose dwellings were in unhealthy places, suffered most. Scarlatina prevailed in other parts of Norfolk, and raised the mortality. In Wilts, Dorset, Devon, Cornwall, and Somerset, where cholera was very fatal in 1849, the mortality returned to its normal state. The Registrar of Yeovil remarks that:—

> No less than 26 of the 55 deaths have occurred from fever or other affections directly induced by it. Nearly all the cases of fever happened in Vicarage, Silver, and Middle streets, all of which lie directly under an extremely overcrowded churchyard, over which the wind had been blowing in a south and south-westerly direction for some time: this, with the imperfect drainage of the above streets, fully accounts for the origin of the disease.

Small-pox and scarlatina are also noticed in the West Midland Counties. In Hereford the Registrar observes:—

> Small-pox prevails to a considerable extent in this district, having been introduced by a child sickening in a canal-boat which came lately from Gloucester; the child died in Gaol-lane, from which place the disease spread itself over the city. In nearly 60 cases, 7 proved fatal. Scarlatina also has prevailed slightly.

The Registrar of Burslem, in the Potteries, ascribes "the increase of births and decrease of mortality to improved sanatory arrangements, abundance of employment, and cheap food."

Bilston, which suffered last year so much by cholera, from the neglect of sanatory measures, is now losing lives from the neglect of vaccination. The Registrar says:—

The deaths are above the average, owing to the prevalence of small-pox. I have never known this disease so general among the working classes of Bilston. Many adults have taken it and died. It carried off 48 persons, 40 of whom had not been vaccinated. In several houses the whole of the children have been infected, and 2 or 3 have died. I find a growing aversion to vaccination among the poor, to the neglect of which I attribute so great a number of fatal cases.

Diarrhœa prevailed in Birmingham; cholera was fatal in a few towns in different parts of the country, but was nowhere epidemic. The mortality of Liverpool, Manchester, Leeds, Sheffield, and Hull was below the average.

Several of the Registrars refer to the prosperous state of their districts; in connexion with the increase of births and the diminished mortality:—

383; 2. STOURBRIDGE; Stourbridge.—Deaths 79. The deaths are 43 below those of the corresponding quarter of 1849, which is attributable to the salubrity of the weather, regular employment, abundance of good provisions, and the improved sanitary condition of the district. Diarrhœa has been less prevalent than usual at this season of the year.

386; 1. MARTLEY; Martley. Only one illegitimate birth. The blessing of cheap food appears to have a good effect on public morals as well as public health. There is not such dread of the expensiveness of housekeeping among the poor as formerly, when provisions were dear.

395; 1. ASTON; Deritend.—Births 212; Deaths 105. There appears a small increase in the births, which may be caused by the increase of population. Additional dwellings of small size have been lately erected in the district. The deaths are a little below the average, which I am at a loss to account for, unless it arises from the bettered condition of the working classes, owing to the improved state of trade and reduced price of food.

468; 4. BOLTON; Halliwell.—Births 56; Deaths 13. The deaths are greatly below the average, which I attribute to the working people being better fed, trade being good, and all in full employment.

468; 10. BOLTON; Little Bolton.—Births 220; Deaths 124. The number of births is considerably more than the average of the corresponding quarters of the last 13 years. The increase seems to be consequent on the steadiness of trade and influx of persons resident in the township, together with a large number of new cottages which are all occupied chiefly by the working classes. The deaths are about the average of corresponding quarters. Measles has been rather prevalent, and 17 deaths have occurred. The inhabitants have been free from any other epidemic, and are at present in a generally healthy state.

477; 2. HASLINGDEN; Rossendale.—Births 107; Deaths 44. Births, corresponding quarter last year, 66; deaths, corresponding quarter last year, 34. 8 deaths from measles, 2 without medical attendant. I cannot say to what the increase of births is to be attributed, except it be the improved condition of the labouring population, from plenty of employment and cheapness of food.

479; 1. CLITHEROE; Gisburn.—Births 27; Deaths 6. The deaths are below the average, which may be accounted for, perhaps, by the very fine weather, while provisions have been low in price, and work plentiful.

487; 1. SEDBERGH; Sedbergh.—Births 17; Deaths 4. The mortality has been far below the average for upwards of 18 months. I should be at a loss to account for it, otherwise than that the necessaries of life have been plentiful and cheap, and the labouring classes have had sufficient food.

498; 5. HALIFAX; Elland.—Births 116; Deaths 37. The proportion of births to deaths is nearly 3 to one. The number of the latter is less during the present quarter than in any previous one under the Registration Act. The district is remarkably healthy, and the whole of the population well employed, which gives them command of the necessaries of life and improves their physical condition. The present contrasts favourably with the period of limited employment and scarcity of provisions, when the number of deaths in this district was nearly equal to the births.

The next extract presents an exception to the generally prosperous state of the country:—

601; 4. CRICKHOWELL; Llanelly. Births 86; Deaths 44. This sub-district has been unusually healthy. The iron trade is still without animation.

The following note refers to a subject of great public importance.

553; 2. TYNEMOUTH; North Shields.—Births 135; Deaths 72. The police arrangements to prevent the influx of vagrants have tended to promote the health of the population, as most of the infectious diseases have been traced to this source. In fact, in one locality, Pumpwell-lane, in the township of North Shields, which is the resort of these persons, it is said that the Poor Law Union had better pay rent for the whole property and shut it up, than incur the great expense which it entails on the union.

[a] In 1841 the Military in Barracks, Hospitals, Guard-houses, &c., were included in the returns for the several parishes in which those institutions were situated; in 1831 they were not enumerated as part of the population of the parishes, but were returned in the General Summary of Great Britain. The number of Males in Barracks, &c., of 15 Years of age and upwards (nearly all Military), in 1841, is here stated, in order that by excluding them from the returns for that year the increase of population since 1831 may be more precisely ascertained.

NOTE.—The 13 weeks of 1850, constituting the September quarter in the Weekly Tables of Mortality, ended September 28th, in which 11578 deaths were registered. In the quarter ending September 30th (p. 71), 11815 deaths were registered.

* The mortality of the districts of Lewisham and Hampstead was included in the Metropolitan Returns at the commencement of 1847, for the first time; therefore the deaths for the previous year are not contained in the above table. In the Quarter ending September, 1846 they were 192.

† Under the head of sudden deaths are classed not only deaths described as sudden, of which the cause has not been ascertained or stated; but also all deaths returned by the coroner in vague terms, such as "found dead," "natural causes," &c., &c.

‡ In the years previous to 1848, "worms" and "infantile fever" were classed together. The former, of very rare occurrence, is now placed to diseases of stomach, &c.

On the Meteorology of England and South of Scotland during the Quarter ending 30 Sept. 1850. By James Glaisher, Esq., F.R.S., Hon. Sec. of the British Meteorological Society.

The mean daily temperature of the air was below its average value till July 13; the mean defect was 2°·2; from July 12th to the 24th, the period was warm, the average excess of temperature was 4°·8; from July 25th to August 3rd, the temperature was below the average, its mean deficiency was 1°·; from August 4th to August 18th, it was above the average, the mean excess was 2°; this was followed by a long period of fine, clear, dry, but cold weather, the average deficiency of temperature, between August 19th and September 17th, was 3°·5, and after September 18th the daily temperatures were slightly above their average values. Snow fell on Ben Lomond on August 23rd.

The mean temperature of the 3 months ending August, constituting the 3 summer months, was 61°·1, being 1°·2 above that of the average of 79* preceding summers.

at Exeter; on the 23rd at Holkham and Norwich; on the 24th at Holkham; on the 26th at Stonyhurst, and on the 30th at Jersey and Trowbridge.

At Exeter.—On the 25th of July, the reading of the barometer decreased from 29·510 at 9 A.M. to 29·237 at 9 P.M., and the wind blew strong from the S.W., and a thunder storm then set in, accompanied by very heavy rain.

At Uckfield.—During the third week of July, the weather was very wet, and many places in Sussex were visited by severe thunder storms.

At Hartwell Rectory.—On the 15th of July at 1h. 30m. P.M. there was a storm, with thunder and lightning and very heavy rain, measuring in the gauge 0·510 in. The weather continued stormy with sheet lightning, all the evening. July 17th, at 6h. 30m. P.M., there was another thunder storm, but very little rain; sheet lightning was seen, at intervals, during the evening, to the south and west. July 18th, at 3h., 30m. P.M. there was a thunder storm and heavy rain; there was sheet lightning also in the evening, followed by continued rain, which measured in the gauge on the following morning 1·610 inches.

At York.—On August 8th, a thunder storm occurred between 6 and 8 in the evening. The Diocesan school and the Roman Catholic chapel were struck by lightning and injured; sheep were killed, and two individuals were knocked down, but no human life was lost. This was the severest storm that has occurred in York for the last 20 years. Thunder and lightning occurred again on the 9th.

At Stonyhurst.—The lightning during the thunder storm of 16th July was the most brilliant Mr. Weld remembers ever to have witnessed. It frequently resembled the explosions of fireworks, and on several occasions 3 or 4 branches darted from the same centre, while sometimes the sky seemed traversed in every direction by streaming lightning of the most vivid description. The thunder was incessant, but very distant, and no rain fell. Mr. Weld heard of 7 persons being killed, and about as many more struck, but not killed, besides several valuable cows and horses which were killed.

Thunder was heard, but lightning was not seen, on July 4th, at North Shields; on the 9th at Holkham; on the 15th at Guernsey; on the 16th at St. John's Wood, Linslade, Stone, and Wakefield; on the 17th at Greenwich, Durham, and North Shields; on the 18th at Wakefield; on the 19th at Stone; and on the 23rd at Guernsey. On August 6th at Oxford, Aylesbury, Holkham and North Shields; on the 12th at Uckfield, Linslade, Holkham, Hawarden and Liverpool; on the 13th at Jersey; on the 19th at Norwich; on the 21st at Dunino: on the 23rd at Cardington; on the 24th at Exeter, Oxford, Hartwell Rectory, and at Stone, and on the 28th at Nottingham. On September 3rd and 24th at Aylesbury, on the 26th at Durham and North Shields, and on the 27th at St. John's Wood.

Lightning was seen, but thunder was not heard on July 8th, at Uckfield; on the 15th at Uckfield, Hartwell Rectory, Stone, Linslade, Cardington, Leicester, Nottingham, Liverpool, and Stonyhurst; on the 16th at Leicester, Nottingham and Manchester; on the 17th at St. John's Wood, Oxford, Hartwell Rectory and Liverpool; on the 19th at Stone; and on the 29th, at Manchester. Solar Halos were seen on July 6th at Uckfield; on the 10th near Oxford and Nottingham; on Aug. 3rd at Dunino; on the 17th at Greenwich; on the 20th at Dunino; on the 28th at Uckfield; on the 29th at Exeter and Nottingham. On Sept. 12th at Guernsey, and on the 29th at Dunino Lunar Halos were seen on July 22nd at Stone, Nottingham, and Norwich. On August 21st at Uckfield and Nottingham; on the 22nd at Uckfield, Oxford, Cardington and Nottingham; on the 23rd at Uckfield and Nottingham; on the 24th at Hawarden; on the 26th at Stonyhurst; and on the 31st at Durham. The mean of the numbers in the first column is 29·605 inches, and it represents that portion of the reading of the barometer due to the pressure of air; the remaining portion, or that due to the pressure of water, is 0·397 inch; the sum of those two numbers, is 30·002 inches, and it represents the mean reading of the barometer, for the quarter ending September 30, 1850.

The highest reading of the thermometer in air, was 89° at Uckfield and 88°·5 at Linslade, and 88° at Hartwell; and the lowest readings were 31° at Wakefield, and 32 at Aylesbury and Hartwell. The extreme range of temperature, therefore, in England during the quarter was about 66°.

The least daily ranges of temperature took place at Guernsey, Liverpool, and North Shields, their mean value was 10°·1; and the greatest occurred at Uckfield, Aylesbury, and Hartwell, and their mean value was 23°·3.

The least monthly ranges of temperature occurred at Guernsey, Torquay, and Liverpool; their mean value was 23°·4; and the greatest took place at Uckfield, Aylesbury, and Hartwell, and their mean value was 45°·9.

The average range of temperature in the quarter at Uckfield, Hartwell, and Highfield House was 55°·1, and at Guernsey, Jersey, and North Shields was 30°·2.

Rain fell in the least number of days at Jersey and Torquay, and on the greatest number at Wakefield, Stonyhurst, and North Shields. The places where the least falls took place are London and Truro, and the mean amount at those places was 5·3 inches. The largest falls occurred at Stonyhurst and Whitehaven, and their average was 12·4 inches.

OF

THE MARRIAGES, BIRTHS, AND DEATHS IN ENGLAND.

This Return comprises the Births and Deaths registered by 2189 registrars in all the districts of England during the Autumn quarter ending December 31st, 1850; and the Marriages in more than 12000 churches or chapels, 2859 registered places of worship unconnected with the Established Church, and 623 Superintendent Registrars' offices, in the quarter that ended September 30th, 1850.

The return of Marriages is not complete; but the defects are inconsiderable, and have been supplied from previous years.

In their general character the returns of the last quarter of 1850 are still highly favorable; and imply a happier condition of the population at the close, than at the commencement of the year. While fewer lives have been lost by epidemic diseases, the marriages and births have increased.

Marriages, Births, and Deaths, returned in the Years 1839–50, and in the Quarters of those Years.

MARRIAGES.

The marriages celebrated in the summer quarter ending September 30th were 37496, or more by ten thousand than were registered in the summer quarter of 1842; and two thousand four hundred more than have been returned in the summer quarter of any previous years. Allowing for increase of population the proportion of marriages is greater than it has been in the same season of any year since the Registration commenced. Except in the Eastern and South Eastern Counties the increase of marriages has been general in all the great divisions of the country. In London the increase has been considerable; in Berkshire, Buckinghamshire, Oxfordshire, Northamptonshire, and Bedfordshire, it has probably kept pace with the population; in Wiltshire, Dorsetshire, and Cornwall; in Gloucestershire, Shropshire, and Staffordshire, the increase has been still more marked; in Leicestershire, Nottinghamshire, Derbyshire, Cheshire, Lancashire, and the West Riding of Yorkshire, however, the greater part of the excess has arisen. Northumberland Cumberland, and South Wales, exhibit nearly the same increase as the Midland Counties. Among the counties in which the marriages have decreased, or have not sensibly increased, may be named—Kent, Hampshire, Suffolk, Norfolk, Devonshire, Lincolnshire, the East and North Ridings of York, Westmorland, and

† The Table may be read thus, without reference to the decimal points:—In the year 1848, to 100000 of the population of England, there were 791 marriages, 3222 births, 2288 deaths registered.—The annual rates of marriage in each of the 4 quarters were ·655, ·799, ·748, and ·952 per cent.; the rates of death 2·771, 2·294, 1·987, and 2·090 per cent. In reading the population on the first line add 3 ciphers (000). The 3 months January, February, March, contain 90, in leap year 91 days; the 3 months April, May, June 91 days; each of the 2 last quarters of the year 92 days. For this inequality, a correction has been made in the calculation. It was assumed that the population increased at the same rate as the females increased in 1831—41, namely 1·332 per cent. annually, or ·331 quarterly. So $\frac{1}{4} \lambda r$ = ·0014370.

North Wales. The marriages at Brighton increased from 133 in the summer of 1847, and 113 in 1848, to 177; at Cheltenham from 90 to 105; at Clifton from 88 to 115. At Wolstanton, Burslem, and Stoke-upon-Trent, among the potteries, the multiplication of marriages is remarkable. In the iron districts of Dudley, Walsall, Birmingham, and Merthyr Tydfil, the advance was slow, or inconsiderable. At Coventry, as well as Spitalfield Whitechapel, the seats of the silk trade, the marriages increased rapidly; as they did also at Leicester, Nottingham, and Derby, at Stockport, and Macclesfield. At Manchester, the marriages rose from 1097 to 1442; at Preston from 159 to 281; Halifax from 215 to 313; Leeds from 418 and 359 to 488; Newcastle-on-Tyne from 293 to 318; Carlisle from 39 to 53; Merthyr Tydfil from 160 to 213.

In the purely agricultural counties marriage then still went on slowly, but steadily; in all the iron and coal fields at but a slightly increasing rate; while in all the counties peopled by the workers in lace, silk, wool, and cotton, the number of marriages—of new families established—has increased at a rate of which there are few examples in the returns of the last hundred years. And the general result is an aggregate increase in the marriages of the whole country during the summer quarter of the year 1850.

BIRTHS.

The Births in the quarter following, which ended on December 31st, 1850, were also the greatest number ever registered in the autumn quarters of any previous year. 146268 children were born in the three months. The births are in general most numerous in the spring quarter, and were so in the spring of 1850: they have since greatly exceeded the numbers registered in previous years in all the divisions of the kingdom—whether agricultural or manufacturing—in counties ravaged by cholera, and in counties left unscathed by that plague.

INCREASE OF POPULATION.

The excess of births registered over deaths in the quarter is 54245. The usual excess is forty thousand more births than deaths; the excess in the last quarter of 1845 was 50000; in 1847, when influenza was epidemic, only 24000; in 1849, when the cholera epidemic was rapidly declining, 38000.

In the last quarter of the year 1850, 56971 emigrants left the ports of the United Kingdom, at which there are Government Emigration officers; 3836 departed from Irish ports, 1903 from Glasgow and Greenock, and 51232 from three English ports; namely, 1702 from Plymouth, 4282 from London, and 45248 from Liverpool. During the whole of the year 1850 the births were 593567, the deaths 369679, and consequently the excess of births over deaths was 223888 in England: the same year 280843 emigrants sailed from the shores of the United Kingdom,—214606 (many of them of Irish birth) from England; 15154 from Scotland, and 51083 from Ireland.* The number of births and deaths in Scotland and Ireland is unknown; and the Census alone can disclose at what precise rate the population increases; but we know that the new births more than replace the vast armies of peaceful emigrants that every year assemble without much noise, and led apparently by the same kind of divine instinct that directs other migrations, leave their native land to seek homes in regions prepared for them all over the world.

STATE OF THE PUBLIC HEALTH.

That the health of the country is in a state not so unsatisfactory as it has been, is evident from the reduced mortality. 92023 deaths were registered; and allowing for the probable increase of population, the rate of mortality is lower than it has been in any of the last quarters of the years 1839–50 except 1845. The rate has been such that 1 in 197 of the population died in the quarter. The chances were 196 to 1, in this quarter, that a person would live through the 3 months; the average chance of living through the 3 months in England is 184 to 1.

London has suffered less than usual from zymotic diseases; and the deaths from all causes have been 12544. Of this number 1946 took place in public institutions; namely, 114 in the military hospitals and asylums, 1070 in workhouses, 636 in hospitals, exclusive of 9 deaths in hospitals for foreigners—108 in lunatic asylums, and 9 in prisons, so that 1 in 12 who died in London ended his days in workhouses, 1 in 20 in hospitals, 1 in 115 in lunatic asylums, and 1 in 1381 in prisons. The deaths from small-pox and hooping-cough are increasing; of scarlatina, 429 persons, chiefly children, died; diarrhœa declined; influenza which destroyed more than 1161 lives 3 years ago, was fatal only in 26 cases; of typhus 619 persons died; of childbirth, including metria, 117 women died. The deaths from bronchitis and pneumonia together amounted to 1868; these diseases being fatal both in infancy and advanced age. Consumption was fatal to 1455 persons of all ranks; it is the great constant inexorable destroyer of men and women in the prime of life; and notwithstanding the efforts and researches of the most eminent inquirers has not yet been disarmed of its fatal powers. 17 deaths were due to intemperance, 9 to privation; 51 were ascribed to the want of breastmilk, 2 to neglect, 1 to cold, 22 to poisoning, 49 to burns and scalds, 54 to hanging and strangling, 59 to drowning, 142 to fractures and contusions, 20 to wounds, 11 to other violence.

* Return with which the Registrar-General has been supplied by the Emigration Commissioners.

In every division of England the mortality has declined; and been lower than in the corresponding quarters of 1846, 1847, 1849. Lancashire and Cheshire present the greatest fluctuations.

The mortality in the South Eastern Division has been generally low. In Kent, scarlatina was epidemic at Gillingham, near the Medway, where cholera was prevalent last year; in Sussex, at Lewes; in Hampshire, at New Forest, Southampton and Basingstoke. At Southampton the deaths (300) nearly equalled the births. In Oxford and other parts of the South Midland counties scarlatina prevailed. At Harpenden, St. Albans, four deaths from fever occurred in one house; and three other members of the family were attacked. The house stands in an open situation, but has only one bed-room.

A very accurate and interesting account of the health and diseases of Oxford has been given by Dr. Greenhill; who has for some time prepared for that city tables of mortality, which other cities and large towns would do well to imitate.

In Norfolk, Yarmouth, Norwich, and the neighbouring districts suffered severely from scarlatina. Scarlatina and small-pox prevailed in the South Western counties. Plymouth has been exceedingly unhealthy; in Exeter and Bath, the mortality has been low; Bristol and Clifton about the average. Measles was epidemic at Gloucester; small-pox at Hereford; scarlatina at Kingsland, Leominster; and at Shrewsbury. In Staffordshire, at Cheadle, a striking instance of immunity from mortality was noticed; out of a population of 7000 only two deaths occurred in the month of November, and one of these was in a child prematurely born. Small-pox has been fatal at Wolverhampton, and has raged 6 months at Bilston; where in the last quarter it destroyed 69 persons, 50 of whom had never been vaccinated. Birmingham and Coventry enjoyed an average degree of health. The mortality of Leicester, Lincoln, and Nottingham was about the average; Derby was visited by a virulent kind of measles, which raised the deaths above the average. Liverpool has been less unhealthy than usual; of Manchester the mortality is much below the average although small-pox has been prevalent. The mortality at Leeds has been low; at Sheffield near the average; although there scarlatina, measles, and hooping-cough prevailed. Scarborough, Whitby and Durham were healthy. The mortality in Newcastle-on-Tyne and Carlisle does not differ much from the average.

The comparatively good health of several districts is ascribed by the Registrars to the employment and the improved condition of the people. The following are the chief passages referring to this point, and to the effect of sanitary measures:

58; 4. MAIDSTONE; West Maidstone.—Births 67; Deaths 68. Deaths in the district generally are below the average, which I attribute to the improved condition of the poor, arising from the cheapness of food.

212; 3. SUDBURY; Sudbury.—Births 60; Deaths 25. Deaths considerably below the average, being in fact the smallest number registered in any quarter since the commencement of the present registration. Abundance of employment for the weavers, and the cheapness of food, are the only apparent causes of the improved state of health.

274; 2. WEYMOUTH; Weymouth.—Births 76; Deaths 42. The deaths are 11 below the average. This may probably be accounted for by the unusual fineness of the weather for the season, and a better supply of pure water.

310; 2. REDRUTH; Redruth.—Births 100; Deaths 48. The births are in excess of the corresponding quarter in 1849, which may be accounted for on the same grounds as before, the great influx of strangers into the sub-district. The deaths are 40 below the same quarter of 1849, and also below the quarterly average. This improvement is attributable to the entire absence of epidemics and to the better condition of the inhabitants generally, consequent on an abundant supply of labour, and cheapness of provisions.

353; 4. CLUN; Lydbury.—Births 15; Deaths 9. The sub-district is at present in a healty state and free from epidemics. I consider that the labouring class who form the majority of the inhabitants are better off than they have been for some time past.

440; 3. NOTTINGHAM; Saint Ann.—Births 120; Deaths 69. The deaths are below the average; 3 deaths have occurred from diarrhœa, and one from typhus. One-third of the deaths registered this quarter occurred in the Union workhouse. The decrease in this and 4 preceding quarters is attributable to three causes: the mildness of the season, the beneficial arrangements made by the Sanitary Committee, and the decided improvement in trade, which has enabled the mechanic to provide himself and family with wholesome food. The last-mentioned improvement has also thinned the Union workhouse, which contributes on an average at least a fourth of the deaths.

468; 10. BOLTON; Little Bolton.—Births 222; Deaths 121. The births are much above the average of the corresponding quarters of former years, which I attribute entirely to the steadiness of all branches of trade and manufacture, in this neighbourhood. The deaths are much below the average of the corresponding quarters of former years. Measles has been prevalent, and there has been 13 fatal cases. One death certified from English cholera, and 6 from fever have occurred. The mildness of the season, abundance of cheap provisions, and plenty of all kinds of employment, have doubtless tended to mitigate epidemics and diminish mortality.

468; 11. BOLTON; East Bolton.—Births 220; Deaths 137. This return exhibits a considerable decrease in comparison with the average of former years. The recent sanitary arrangements, combined with the improved condition of the working population, owing to a better state of trade and the cheapness of provisions, may account in some measure for the difference.

469; 7. BURY; North Bury.—Births 113; Deaths 65. Deaths considerably below the average; owing, almost entirely I believe, to the extent to which sanitary measures have been carried out.

487; 1. SEDBERGH; Sedbergh.—Births 21; Deaths 4. The deaths still remain much below the average. Sanatory improvements have been carried out to some extent in the town of Sedbergh and neighbourhood. There has been some trifling movement of the population, but not sufficient to account for the decrease. The low price of provisions, plenty of work, new enclosures, and improvements in agriculture, such as drainage, and bringing moss and waste land into cultivation, these things have been the means of keeping the labourers in full employment. With provisions low, the poor have been able to procure sufficient food.

Hull was the only town in which any appearance of epidemic cholera was observed. In that district and Sculcoates, so fatally visited by cholera last year, several persons died of cholera in the quarter; 10 at Sutton, one at Drypool, 15 in East Sculcoates, 9 in West Sculcoates, 19 in Humber, 20 in Myton. At present this district may be considered healthy. After the great epidemic of cholera in 1832, a second outbreak followed in 1833; and was fatal in towns that had before been spared. It is a subject of congratulation—and is perhaps ascribable to the better circumstances of the people, and to some of the sanitary measures in progress, that the country escaped a second visitation in 1850.

The mortality in the autumn quarter was at the rate of 2·323 per cent. per annum in 117 town districts; and 1·824 per cent. per annum in 506 districts, comprising small towns and country parishes. By causes still in operation, the towns to every 4 deaths from what may be called natural causes, lost in a favourable season, one life by the poisons generated in crowded, dirty houses, in the churchyards, in slaughter-houses, in undrained streets, and sewers.

[a] In 1841 the Military in Barracks, Hospitals, Guard-houses, &c., were included in the returns for the several parishes in which those institutions were situated; in 1831 they were not enumerated as part of the population of the parishes, but were returned in the General Summary of Great Britain. The number of Males in Barracks, &c., of 15 Years of age and upwards (nearly all Military), in 1841, is here stated, in order that by excluding them from the returns for that year the increase of population since 1831 may be more precisely ascertained.

NOTE.—The 13 weeks of 1850, constituting the December quarter in the Weekly Tables of Mortality, ended December 28th, in which 12544 deaths were registered. In the quarter ending December 31st (p. 103), 12958 deaths were registered.

* The deaths in the districts of Lewisham and Hampstead were included in the Metropolitan Returns at the commencement of 1847, for the first time; therefore the deaths for the previous year are not contained in the above table. In the Quarter ending December 1846 they were 188.

† Under the head of sudden deaths are classed not only deaths described as sudden, of which the cause has not been ascertained or stated; but also all deaths returned by the coroner in vague terms, such as "found dead," "natural causes," &c., &c.

‡ In the years previous to 1848, "worms" and "infantile fever" were classed together. The former, of very rare occurrence, is now placed to diseases of stomach, &c.

On the Meteorology of England and South of Scotland during the Quarter ending 31 Dec. 1850. By James Glaisher, Esq., F.R.S., Sec. of the British Meteorological Society.

The mean temperature of December 31st, was 50° nearly, and exceeding its average value by 13°. During the whole quarter there has been an unusual amount of fog, it having been prevalent more or less on 69 days.

The mean temperature of the 3 months ending November, constituting the 3 autumn months, was 50°·0,* exceeding the average of 79 years by 0°·7.

The mean of the numbers in the first column is 29·652 inches, and it represents that portion of the reading of the barometer due to the pressure of air; the remaining portion, or that due to the pressure of water, is 0·271 inch; the sum of those two numbers, is 29·923 inches, and it represents the mean reading of the barometer, for the quarter ending December 31, 1850.

The highest reading of the thermometer in air, was 71°·7 at Nottingham; 69°·5 at Chiswell-street, London, and 67°·0 at Falmouth; and the lowest readings were 17° at York 18°·4 at Durham, and 19° at Wakefield. The extreme range of temperature, therefore, in England during the quarter was about 54°.

The least daily ranges of temperature took place at Guernsey, Leicester, and Whitehaven, their mean value was 7°; and the greatest occurred at Nottingham, Wakefield, and Hartwell, and their mean value was 13°·9.

The least monthly ranges of temperature occurred at Guernsey, Liverpool, and Leicester; their mean value was 22°·7; and the greatest took place at Wakefield, Nottingham, and Uckfield, and their mean value was 37°.

The average range of temperature in the quarter at Nottingham, Oxford, and Wakefield was 46°·9, and at Guernsey, Liverpool, and Jersey was 27°·1.

Rain fell in the least number of days at Newcastle, Dunino, and Southampton, and on the greatest number at Stonyhurst, Manchester, and Wakefield. The places where the least falls took place are York, Cardington, Bedford, and London, and the mean amount at those places was 4·6 inches. The largest falls occurred at Stonyhurst, Guernsey, and Whitehaven, and their verage was 14·1 inches.

Letter from William Farr, Esq., M.D., to the Registrar General, on the Causes of Death in England, 1850.

Sir, General Register Office.

An inquiry into all the deaths that were known, were suspected, or were, from their nature, likely to be caused by wilful, careless, or accidental violence, was instituted in the earlier ages, and it has ever since been found to be so advantageous to society, that in England it has been continued in the coroner's court down to the present day.

Under the Registration Act, the cause of every death was, in 1837, required to be supplied by the informants, but its provisions involved no arrangement to secure the greatest possible amount of accuracy in the information that was thus communicated. The opinions of the medical men who treated the cases that terminated fatally were consequently only given indirectly, until 1847, when you distributed forms of certificates of the cause of death among all the qualified members of the medical profession; from the first directing the Registrars to withhold them from quacks and unqualified practitioners. The medical authorities, and the great majority of the medical practitioners of England and Wales, supported this measure; and, although the inquiry into the causes of death, like that in the coroner's court, is still imperfect, it is carried out to a large extent, and with more accuracy than it is in any other state.

I now proceed to bring under your notice briefly the results of this extended inquiry into the causes of all the deaths that happened to the people of England and Wales in 1850.

The causes of 361,542 deaths are specified. Of the causes of 7060 deaths no accounts are found in the registers. The great majority of the causes of deaths are certified by the medical attendants of the persons deceased, in the forms that you have prescribed.

It often happens that certain diseases are followed by other diseases, or that two forms of malady are successively developed and are in intimate connexion. Thus scarlatina is sometimes followed by dropsy, measles and hooping-cough by bronchitis or pneumonia, typhus by perforation of the intestine, phthisis by pneumothorax, hernia by peritonitis, stone by nephritis, childbirth by metria. External causes are frequently fatal, not in a direct way, but by developing phenomena that are recognized as diseases. Thus arsenic induces gastritis (inflammation of the stomach), alcoholic drinks induce delirium tremens, privation leads to scurvy and dropsy, cold to mortification, burns to internal irritative diseases, contusions, fractures, and wounds to erysipelas, tetanus, purulent deposits (pyemia), and, under certain circumstances, to hospital gangrene.

It has been the general rule, in the classification, to refer the secondary affections that supervene in the course of measles, scarlatina, phthisis, and other diseases, to the primary diseases by which they are caused or modified, and the diseases that are the direct result of external causes to those causes. The partial exceptions to these rules occur in the above classes of cases. At some subsequent period it will be right to investigate these double causes.

The year 1850 differed, as the extracts from the quarterly tables* show, from the previous year, in salubrity. The epidemic of cholera terminated in 1849; the temperature of 1850, after considerable depression in January and March, intercepted by a warm February, rose, and remained high. The temperature of the year was one degree above the average. The prices of provisions were moderate, and the working classes easily met with employment.

Table I. presents a comparative view of the deaths in the four years 1847 to 1850.

times, more or less, but at distant intervals and places break out as epidemics or plagues. Certain matters are developed, that differ in activity under different circumstances and in different places, setting up in other bodies actions and changes similar to those that take place in their own production.

74,833 deaths, or 21 in every 100 deaths, were the results of zymotic disease, which was fatal to 4 in every 1000 of the population.

The Table may be read thus: To 1,000,000 deaths from All Specified Causes there were 12906 deaths from small-pox; 19583 from measles; 36980 from scarlatina, and so on. By placing a decimal point before the three figures on the right the proportion will be shown to 1000 deaths; thus there were 12·906 (nearly 13) deaths from small-pox to every 1000 deaths from All Specified Causes.

The most fatal diseases of the class were typhus (14,296 deaths), scarlatina (13,370), diarrhœa (11,468), hooping-cough (7770), measles (7080), small-pox (4666), and croup (4321).

Cholera was fatal to 886 persons; cholera and diarrhœa to 12,334 persons. In the previous year 71,104 persons died of these diseases.

Influenza was the cause of 1380 deaths. In the year 1848 it was fatal in 7963 instances.

Of typhus, including all the common continued fevers of England, 30,320 persons died in the year 1847, and 14,296 in 1850.

One death in every five was the result of zymotic diseases, or 21 in 100 deaths.

Specific Diseases: or (1) Diseases of uncertain or variable Seat; and (2) Tuberculous Diseases.

The diseases of the zymotic class are generally attended in some of their stages with acute febrile excitement, and affect the blood and secretions. The two subsequent groups comprise diseases of uncertain or variable seat (2), and tubercular diseases (3). Hæmorrhage, dropsy, abscess, ulcer including fistula, and mortification, also affect various parts of the body. In cancer, gout, scrofula, and phthisis, there are specific deposits; and in the diseases of the two groups the blood is apparently modified.

The deaths from the second group amounted to 19,341; from the third group, or tubercular diseases, 60,385; and from the two groups together 79,726; a number which is considerably in excess of the deaths by zymotic diseases.

In unhealthy years, and in unhealthy places, it may be laid down as a general law, that the zymotic diseases (1) are always more fatal than the diseases in the two next groups (2, 3): and that in healthy seasons and places the converse is true.

Dropsy is referred to as the cause of 9981 deaths, and was undoubtedly in many instances associated with organic diseases of the heart, or of the kidneys (nephria).

Of cancer, in various forms, 4966 persons died; and it will be observed that, as in the other diseases of the class, the numbers fluctuate little from year to year.

The deaths from phthisis (consumption) were fewer than usual (46,614), but amounted to more than the deaths from any other disease, and to 1 in 8, or 13 per cent., of the deaths from all causes. To every 1000 of the population 2·6 die every year of consumption.

Organic Diseases; or Diseases of particular Organs.

The body is composed of many organs, which in the Tables are arranged in eight groups (4—11): (4) the brain and its appendages, the seats of consciousness and the sources of sensation and of motive power; (5) the heart and the blood vessels that contain and circulate the blood; (6) the organs of respiration; (7) the organs for the digestion of food; (8) the organs of urinary secretion; (9) the uterus and other organs of reproduction; (10) the organs of locomotion; and (11) the integumentary organs. All the organs are subject to inflammations, and to various functional as well as structural diseases, which destroyed the lives of 134,559 persons. Deviating somewhat from the common use of the term, this may be designated the great group of organic diseases; that is, of diseases of particular organs, or of particular sets of organs; while the life of the rest of the organization, though it is affected only indirectly, is nevertheless in the end destroyed or arrested in its course.

47,450 persons died of diseases of the nervous system, including 22,997 of convulsions, 8093 of apoplexy, and 7318 of paralysis.

Medical men throughout the country have become acquainted with the means of distinguishing heart disease with facility, and it is now detected in cases which would formerly have escaped notice. 11,357 persons died of diseases of the heart and blood vessels.

43,827 deaths were the result of diseases of the lungs and of the other organs of respiration; 14,612 arising from inflammation of the air tubes (bronchitis), 20,303 from inflammation of the cells and substance of the lungs (pneumonia), and 4573 from asthma.

The diseases of the organs of digestion (22314) were not fatal in half so many cases as the diseases of the organs of respiration; teething was the cause of 4086 deaths; gastritis and enteritis of 4252. The French writers would refer many of the cases of diarrhœa and typhus to this head, or to gastro-enteritis.

The diseases of the pancreas were considered the causes of 18 deaths; the diseases of the spleen of 58 deaths.

The fatal diseases of the liver, including hepatitis (1437) and jaundice (1164), were 6156. 1541 deaths are referred to diseases of the kidneys and their appendages, undiscriminated in the Table; 178 to inflammation of the kidneys (nephritis); 430 to nephria, which, because it was first well described by that physician, has been called Bright's disease by some nosologists. The apparent increase of the deaths by nephria from 254 in 1847 to 430 in 1850 is partly referable to improvements in the diagnosis of the medical practitioners throughout the country; for the accuracy of these records depends as much on the diffusion of medical knowledge as on the progress of medical discovery. Nephria, as well as many diseases of the heart, were formerly referred to dropsy, which is a common result of their protracted existence.

Diabetes, that singular disease, in which sugar is excreted in the urine, is always fatal; and 421 persons died of it in the year. Stone was the cause of 250 deaths; cystitis of 214. The 207 deaths by stricture of the urethra must, I fear, be considered as the remote results of syphilis. The whole group of the diseases of the urinary organs was fatal in 3332 cases, or 9 deaths in 1000 were referred to the head, which was fatal to 188 persons in every million of the population.

The reproduction of the human race is chiefly fatal to women, of whom 1113 died of metria (a zymotic fever incidental to childbirth), and 2139 of the other puerperal affections. Thus in the births of 593,422 living children 3252 of the mothers died; or one mother died to every 182 children born alive. This great loss of women in the prime of life is the result of negligence and ignorance, in many cases, and would be diminished by the education of the nurses and midwives who attend the poor. 219 deaths arose from ovarian dropsy; 701 from diseases of the uterus and of the other organs of reproduction.

2367 persons died of diseases of the organs of locomotion, including rheumatisms, not stated to be acute, or rheumatic fever and diseases of the joints and bones. Rheumatic fever in the zymotic class was fatal in 391 cases.

The leprosy and other diseases which were so fatal in the middle ages, and which were the results of uncleanliness of the skin, have now almost disappeared from the list of causes of death; only 169 deaths are referred generally to diseases of the skin and integuments, 422 were the consequences of phlegmon, and 134 of carbuncle. It will be noted that carbuncle and boil was fatal in the three preceding years to 77, 91, and 81 persons; so that the disease which has since continued to prevail extensively, though rarely fatal, almost assumed an epidemic form in 1850.

The carbuncle attacks or is fatal in the proportion of 3 males to 1 female, and chiefly to persons of the age of 40 and upwards. No female over 5 and under the age of 35 died of carbuncle.

Diseases of Growth, Nutrition, and Decay.

The human body is developed from a small cell into organs, systems, and all the elaborate mechanism of its perfect form; which, amidst endless mutations of its substance, exists for a series of years, and then gradually decays and dies. Derangements of the processes of development and the decay itself constitute the classes of causes (12, 13, 14, and 15) to which 54,878 deaths are referred. Some of the processes of development are arrested; hence malformations, such as harelip, spina bifida, imperfect closure of a passage through the heart, causing cyanosis; which are the early forms of the organs left in their imperfect state. These imperfections are often, directly or indirectly, fatal in infancy or in the course of a few years of age; and 781 deaths are referred to malformation. Then, in the nine months of intra-uterine life, many casualties occur and diseases arise, which have hitherto been only imperfectly described, and which destroy the fœtus that is stillborn, and is therefore not registered under the Act. Many children are born prematurely, or, if maturely, in a state of great vital debility and of exhaustion, from protracted parturition or from some other cause: they breathe for a few hours, days, or weeks, and then die. This state is generally called "debility," or sometimes premature birth. A similar state that supervenes in advanced age, and sometimes in the intermediate stages of life, is designated by the same name. The deaths that are referred in the registers to premature birth and debility are 18,045, of which 9901 befell male, 8144 female infants under one year of age.

The body wastes away in many diseases; and this is so particularly the characteristic of the tubercular class that one has been called "marasmus," and another "consumption." Sometimes, however, the cause of the wasting is not discovered, or nutrition is simply suspended; and 9950 persons are returned as having died of atrophy; under which the decay that attends old age has, however, in a certain number of instances, been apparently classed.

26,102 persons died of "old age," or, if we deduct those under the age of 70, the number becomes 25,576. But the total number of persons who died aged 70 and upwards was 55,266; so that specific causes other than age were assigned to nearly half the number of these deaths, and may have operated unperceived in many of the other instances, for disease itself becomes feeble and indistinct in a feeble decaying body. The 3559 sudden deaths are cases in which inquests were held, and the organic or other cause of death was not ascertained. They may be referred to organic diseases.

Thus have been rapidly passed in review the deaths of 347,555 of the people of England; and we have seen that 74,833 fell by zymotic diseases, 79,726 by two classes of what may be called, for the want of a better term, specific diseases, 138,118 (including the 3559 sudden deaths) by organic diseases in eight classes, and 54,878 by diseases of growth or nutrition, or by decay. Some of these diseases of the four classes are induced, and the greater part of them are diminished or augmented, by heat and cold, the atmosphere, the impure water, the exhalations from the earth, and a great variety of external circumstances; but death is thus only indirectly caused by the intervention of diseases which in many other instances arise spontaneously through the bad composition or the ill-working of the organization itself.

External Causes of Death.

A certain number of deaths are caused directly by external causes, which may be classed as physiological, chemical, and physical causes.

The physiological causes include intemperance (323 deaths), privation (73 deaths), want of breast milk (460 deaths), neglect (38 deaths); and it is evident by this statement that many of the deaths by these causes have been referred to the previous heads of the classification without reference to their external causes.

The chemical causes of death come under three heads; cold (102 deaths), burns and scalds (2782 deaths), and poisons (455 deaths). By intense cold, or by intense heat acting through hot air or hot water, or by the direct contact of burning bodies, the structure of the body is destroyed, and its organic elements are decomposed, with inevitable death as the result when the injury is extensive.

To breathe is to live, and of the physical causes two produce 3705 deaths by stopping the breath; namely, 2532 with water (drowning), and 1173 by other means, such as hanging, strangling, suffocation by closure of the mouth, and the inhalation of irrespirable and sometimes poisonous gases. Lastly, mechanical injuries cause 4824 deaths; namely, 4233 by fractures and contusions, 591 by wounds. In 1225 other cases of death by violence, its nature was not defined. A few cases were returned merely "manslaughter," "murder."

Some of the external causes that in too many instances are fatal are wilfully or negligently set in motion by men, and the act is homicide or suicide. This subject deserves to be fully investigated, for the mental states appear to admit to a large extent of moral and physical control.

I have the honour to be,
Sir,
Your obedient and humble Servant,
William Farr.

[The following Index furnishes a reference to the Number of each District in the topographical arrangement adopted in the Tables of Abstracts contained in the Report, the numbers running consecutively from 1 to 623.* In forming the alphabetical arrangement the principle is adopted of placing compound names in the order in which they are pronounced: thus, East Ashford will be found under the letter E, and not under A, as Ashford, East.]
